The ECU Man and Woman

Lured by the Night

Alone or Together

Emotional or Inhibited

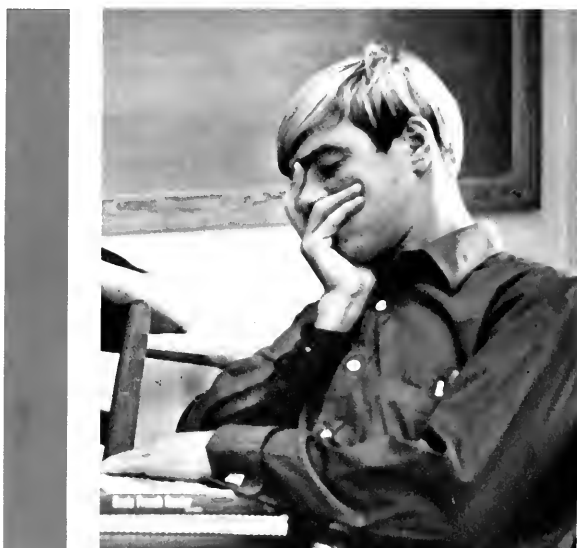

Systematic or Impulsive

Involved or Unconcerned

Forever on the Move

At the Dawn of a New Decade

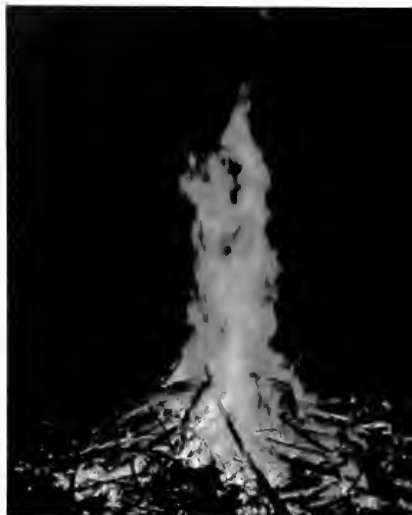

Shape of the future
 Formed
 By the desire
 In one's heart
 And the unwished gift
 Of the world's old problems
 Each uses
 His imagination
 To find a place
 Where with a little rustling
 And turning about
 He can make room
 For himself
 And looking around him
 See what he can do
 To help the fellow
 Next door

A cheerleader, a bonfire ... both spark school spirit ... both fire enthusiastic support before the Davidson game

Mickey Mouse,

Donald Duck, and Goofy. Plenty of sunshine, color, and happiness. Empty bottles of "Rebel Yell" and "Seagram's 7." Homecoming, requiring hundreds of hours of dedicated preparation, provided ECU with a spectacle of color and enthusiasm unparalleled by any previous campus event. Concerts by Dionne Warwick and The Fifth Dimension overwhelmed more than 8,000 students and guests who literally packed into Minges Coliseum. Even when the Davidson Wildcats came from behind to defeat the Pirates, enthusiasm remained high. Pinocchio, Dumbo, Jiminy Cricket, and a host of other Disney characters transformed "Greater Groovy Greenville" into a fantasyland of animation. An endless array of sorority and fraternity house decorations stimulated the imagination of everyone from six to sixty. Homecoming 1970 proved the world a "carousel of color."

Walt Disney characters parade down Fifth Street.

Students cheer for the Pirates of ECU.

Everyone wants a touchdown and most of all—victory!

One step away from a touchdown and a victory for ECU.

Reigning queen crowns the new during halftime ceremonies.

Presidential kiss for the queen.

The Fifth Dimension carries East Carolina Students "Up, Up, and Away" with magical melodies.

Buccaneer Queen 1970

Witty,

charming, and dynamic—these adjectives genuinely describe the Buccaneer queen for 1970. A striking beauty from Arlington, Virginia, Diane Spry was selected from a field of thirty-two campus lovelies who were judged on personality, poise, and photogenic quality. Representing Alpha Phi sorority, the vivacious queen's post-graduation plans include membership either in VISTA or the Peace Corps. Diane, a sophomore history major, explained, "I do not want to sit and watch the world go by; I want to help it along by helping people."

Cheerleader's formations activate school spirit.

Bob Rankin, Head Cheerleader

Pirate Power!

Wild, wet, wonderful. Rankinism. "Give me a P. All the way, all the way go, go!" Homecoming—'69 style. Victory, defeat, joy, sadness. Purple and gold, inter-group competition spirit stick, rally squad. Pep rallies. "Ev-er-ything we do is going to be funky. Ah, but can you rally?" Inspiration, broken ribs, soul. "Rip 'em up, give 'em hell, Pirates!" Davidson, Jacksonville, South Carolina, State, Duke, Wake Forest . . . "Hey, hey, hey, hey! EC you look so good to me!!"

Between rally cries, the cheerleaders engaged in other activities. Attending a workshop at Pfeiffer College, they learned new routines and won an award for being one of the most spirited cheerleading squads. In November, the squad sold cowbells for the Homecoming game.

Popular Entertainment

Shades

of red and blue and Bobby Vinton. Echoes of "Blue Velvet," "Roses are Red," "Blue on Blue," and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady." A combination of ah's and ah's as the Sinatra of the 60's crooned to an enraptured audience. It was an audience of lovers, hands entwined and hearts enlightened. Melodies of love and soft sighs of young girls were heard throughout the audience.

Spotlight

on centerstage, a voice from the shadows. Thursday, April 24, '69 brought Johnny Mathis to Mingos Coliseum. Strains of "I'll Never Fall in Love Again" and "The Twelfth of Never" reverberated into every corner of Mingos. Enthralled students were captivated by Mathis' talent. Though small in stature, Johnny Mathis proved himself a giant among entertainers.

The Association—May 2, 1969.

Bubblegum

music and a concert on "grass." Pirate Jamboree brought Boyce and Hart and the Association to the East Carolina campus.

With six gold records to their credit, the Association opened Jamboree with the drumbeat of excitement. Long famed by "Along Comes Mary," "Cherish," and "Windy," they provided a musical review of their outstanding hits.

Stereotyped as the Kings of Bubblegum Music, Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart played many of the songs they have written, and Boyce and Hart provided a unique experience for the large crowd at the concert on the Mall. "LUV" proved to be a crowd favorite. They wrote the song, meaning Let Us Vote, as a musical request for lowering the voting age to 18. "Let's Take a Trip to Greenville," written the night before the concert, brought cheers, claps, and smiles from the audience.

Boyce and Hart—May 3, 1969.

Times Square Two—January 3, 1969.

Weird, wacky,

zany! An "extra added attraction" to a concert, Times Square Two, "an absolute scream!" Mycroft Parner and Andrew I's fast-moving act included duo-guitars, historical event re-enactments, and juggling of prickly pears. A sound similar to an elephant's roar filled Mingos when Andrew played his tromoblatt, a large ancient brass instrument that looked like an unwound trombone or trumpet with a curved horn on the end. With co-ordinated and perfectly timed antics, Times Square Two provided an hour of rollicking, side-splitting entertainment.

Ballads, beat, rhythm, pop, fantastic dancing ability, and light humor followed with Anthony and the Imperials. Flashing purple shirts and white pants adorned the group who commanded the crowd's full attention. Big hits of yesterday. Total silence. A medley of oldies but goodies such as "Going Out of My Head," "Tears on My Pillow," "I'm on the Outside Looking In," and "Take Me Back." A standing ovation and memories of "beach music."

Anthony and the Imperials—January 31.

Your Father's Moustache—September 27, 1969.

B. J. Thomas—September 9, 1969.

Another year.

More music. A warm reception for B. J. Thomas. The opening concert of Fall 1969. "Little Green Apples" and "Raindrops Fallin' on My Head" echoed throughout Mingus. A ruffled white shirt, a sore throat, but still a performance.

Sunshine

and hundreds of sweating bodies on the Mall. A tuba, trombone, piano, banjo, and washboard. Parents' Day and a return to the Gay Nineties. Derby hats and striped vests. "Footstomping, beer-drinking" music performed by "Your Father's Moustache."

Capacity-plus crowds. Traffic jams. Students packed to the rafters of Mingos. Entertainment for Homecoming 1970 left nothing to be desired except more room.

Total

darkness. Spotlight. Dionne Warwick. Belting out her hits of now and then, Dionne performed before a captivated audience. Her back-up group, the Constellations, added to the excitement. Unbelievable silence permeated Mingos as she sang old favorites such as, "Walk On By," "Don't Make Me Over," "Promises, Promises," and "Alfie."

Spots

and more spots. Black and white dots. Fringed suede vests for the second half. A spontaneous group and a responsive audience. Kicking off with "Up, Up, and Away," the Fifth Dimension dazzled listeners. Dancing in the aisles and on the stage. "Wedding Bell Blues," "Aquarius" and a strobe light. Despite the absence of Marilyn McCou, they were "sensational."

Fifth Dimension—November 9, 1969.

Mistaken identity leads to near disaster in rock musical.

The Brooklyn Bridge—January 25, 1970.

During the performance of "People Got to Be Free," the versatile eleven members of the "Bridge" stimulate high spirits in members of the audience.

Carousel 1970.

Your Own Thing, Jose Feliciano, and the Brooklyn Bridge. A rock musical, a blind entertainer, and eleven versatile musicians. The rising temperatures and warm sunshine put everyone in a good mood for the weekend.

352 dollars

for a phone call that was the spark setting off the rock musical, Your Own Thing. A one-night stand in Wright Auditorium provided a night of light-fingered, light-hearted humor. A story about identical twins separated by a shipwreck and later re-united by chance. The rock musical, whose plot was stolen from Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, was a first for the East Carolina audience.

Magic fingers

on a guitar. Fast-paced to slow-moving. "Put On Your Red Dress, Mama" to "Love Theme from Romeo and Juliet." Led to centerstage by his seeing eye dog, Jose Feliciano left students awestruck by his musical genius and his impersonations of show business personalities. This talented musician proved to the audience that being blind was not a handicap for him.

Eleven

was the magical number for the Brooklyn Bridge. Ten guys and one girl. Performed such hits as "Worst That Could Happen," "Welcome Me Love," and "You'll Never Walk Alone." They sang "Upside Down" and invited people to dance and they did—in the aisles, on the stage, even on the chairs. "People Got to Be Free" was the message they left with ECU students.

Forty students and a great honor. Lots of hard work to gain the prestige of being chosen to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Chosen by a committee composed of students and faculty, these ECU men and women received national recognition.

Lovely

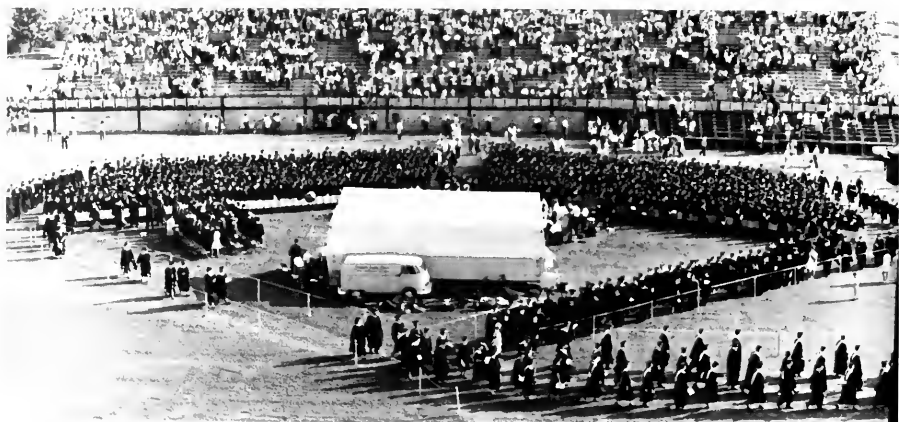

ladies with gracious manners, warm smiles, and helping hands. Ushering for the Fine Arts Series and campus plays. Official hostesses for ECU events. Offering their services to any campus group, the ECU Marshalls were a true combination of beauty and brains. Serving at the Homecoming Alumni Breakfast and ushering at graduation ceremonies in May highlighted a year of service to the University.

Face of the graduate!

Speaker for graduation—Mr. John Watlington, Statewide President Wachovia Bank and Trust.

President Jenkins addresses the June graduates.

I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch where-thro'
Gleams that untravell'd world, whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.

"Ulysses"

—Alfred, Lord Tennyson

Final

moments of anticipation; for some, moments of sorrow; no more final exams; no more eight o'clock classes. The parting of old friends, a retrospect of four long years. A step towards the "big, cruel world" and a step away from the security of the college campus. A piece of parchment, letters to follow a name . . . Was it worth it? No more "happy hours," no more "all-nighters," and no more of that "good" cafeteria food. The brotherhood of fraternities, the sisterhood of sororities, the long waits in the infirmary or in the drop-add line. The hassle of making it to class on time, the frustration faced as a freshman—these were gone. Gone, but not forgotten. Ahead lay a career, marriage, or the service. A never-ending struggle to attain a goal. The choice of a way of life faced the graduate as he walked away.

Graduates face the future with mixed emotions and with hopes for success.

Roll call of the nations, an attempted assassination of the Chinese delegate. Passage of a resolution on the Iran-Iraq border dispute. A plaque for the Best Debater to Arnold Goldin of the University of Virginia. Pretty pages to carry messages. A delicious banquet at the Fiddler's III. A speaker from UNITAR. Impressions of Mid-South Model Security Council. Pounding of the gavel to rule delegates "out of order," discussion of world problems, and possible solutions. An unplanned keg party and a load of newly-made friends. Delegates from Campbell College, UNC, UVA, Duke, and ECU made the fourth annual Model Security Council a booming success.

An unknown assailant attempts to assassinate Robert K. Adams, the Chinese delegate.

Merit scholars register for scholarship week-end.

High school seniors sample a bit of university life.

Shaving

cream fights and cramped accommodations left a lasting impression on National Merit Scholars who visited ECU during Scholarship Week-end. Sponsored by the East Carolina League of University Scholars, high school students from the Southern United States personally experienced various aspects of college life. Like staying in the dormitories and attending classes. A banquet hosted by the Student Government Association with lots of "good" ECU food ended a weekend of visual impressions of East Carolina University.

The Dove,

symbol of peace. The day, Wednesday, October 15, 1969. The event, Vietnam Moratorium. Black armbands, black flags. A debate by Dr. John East and Dr. William White, a speech by President Jenkins. A protest against the Vietnam war and United States involvement. Fifteen hundred students from all facets of life, all against war. Plans for a trip to D. C. for a national Moratorium. Over the nation, thousands of voices asking only for peace and an end to war.

Ring of light, a light for peace.

Candlelight vigil at the United States Post Office

Symbol of the dead, a black flag.

Supporters of Uncle Sam set the stage for the rally.

President Jenkins addresses the young patriots.

"I'm for America," the cry of Rally for America. American flags proudly displayed. Echoes of the pledge of allegiance; "America the Beautiful;" a protest against a protest; support of Nixon's Viet Nam policy. The "silent majority"—no longer silent. The colors—red, white, and blue. The motto, Sic semper terranus. Pro-American speeches by President Jenkins and concerned faculty members. All in all, a solemn assembly to uphold President Nixon and his proposed plans for peace.

Mitch Marshall, left, and two Rose High students display signs.

Police keep watchful eye on marchers.

"27 busted

under new city ordinance." So read the headline of a special edition of the Fountainhead. Exemplified students' concern for individual rights guaranteed in the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States. Twenty-seven young men and women were arrested for "parading without a permit." Apathy turned to outrage. A silent protest, uproarious response. Students decked with white gags "advertised" for SCLC and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy at the Post Office. Greenville City Ordinance Number 330: unfair to some, necessary to others.

Marchers wear white gags to symbolize their protest against lack of freedom of speech.

President Jenkins confers with Black students.

Blacks walk out of convocation held at Ficklen Stadium.

Petition

of ten demands, a cafeteria sit-in, the visit of Dr. Jenkins' residence, convocation walkout—unrest prevailed. Over-powering force resulted in tension and anxiety. Bomb scares, debates, students consumed by a fierce interest ranging from dissent to total agreement and support. Concerned Blacks formed SOULS. A minority found cooperation on all sides. A voice was established.

William Lowe presents the list of ten demands to students.

Ten years—

years of service and hard work to bring East Carolina from a small teachers' college to an expanding liberal arts university. One thousand Tar Heels at an appreciation dinner in Mingos Coliseum. All there to honor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University. State Attorney General Robert B. Morgan, Representative Walter B. Jones of the 1st Congressional district—guest speakers. A tribute now part of the Congressional record, paid by Jones. Dedication. Perseverance. Concern for his fellow man and ECU.

Proposed Planetarium for ECU includes a planetarium chamber, exhibition room and observatory.

Dr. Jenkins and Gov. Robert Scott declare March 7 "Eclipse Day."

Dr. Peter Kahn, Sarah Lee Lippincott of the Sproul Observatory, Dr. Leo Baggerly of the National Science Foundation, Craig Young, Dr. William Byrd, Dr. D. B. Birney and Peter Van De Kamp of the Sproul Observatory.

Scientists and visitors mill around campus before the eclipse begins.

Jean Prideaux of Richmond, Va., and James Henry of Little Rock, Ark. prepare Prideaux's home constructed telescope.

Even the students are curious.

Darkness

at mid-day. The first total solar eclipse seen in North Carolina since 1900. Hundreds of visitors and leading scientists from all over the United States. Scientists ... newspaper men ... curious onlookers flooded ECU's campus. Second only to the rare natural event was announcement of a $100,000 grant to ECU from the American Credit Corporation Foundation for the construction of a $300,000 planetarium at East Carolina. The other $200,000 was to be raised by the University. The beginning of a new phase of advancement for East Carolina University.

In the beginning

there is only confusion

Lines forming
One way streets

no one knows where they go

Big meetings
Small meetings
Lost parents
Lost freshmen

East Carolina has a wholesome Sorority Fraternity parties are where my daughter lives can you tell me where the men's room is

And there are brochures
And there are ID pictures
And somewhere in the distance

there are people
eating watermelons under the trees
drinking beer

At the Rat
At Lum's
At the Buccaneer
At the Fiddler's and the Id

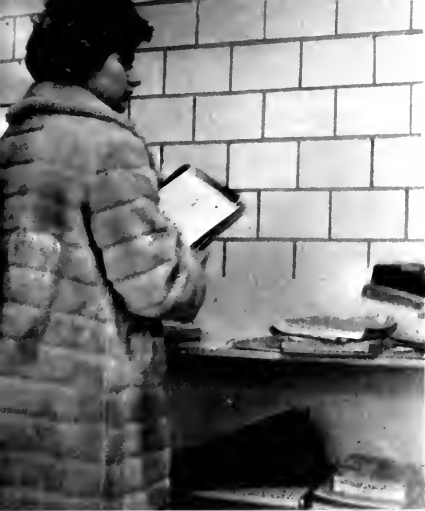

and freshman boys

Wonder how all the freshman girls seem to have dates
all through the night
the lights burn in the dorms noise rings in the halls and the stairs smell of vomit

The lines of orientation
 And fall is full of people
 And more lines
 With people
 With drop-add
 With ones you had your eye on

run into fall
 and more lines
 which help you get acquainted

By television
By lecture
By labs

then classes

And cost

you learn from books that cost

Congratulations

and you get bored right away

You made it to the big time

welcome to the club

Student in the University

you are a

what y'say yer name was again

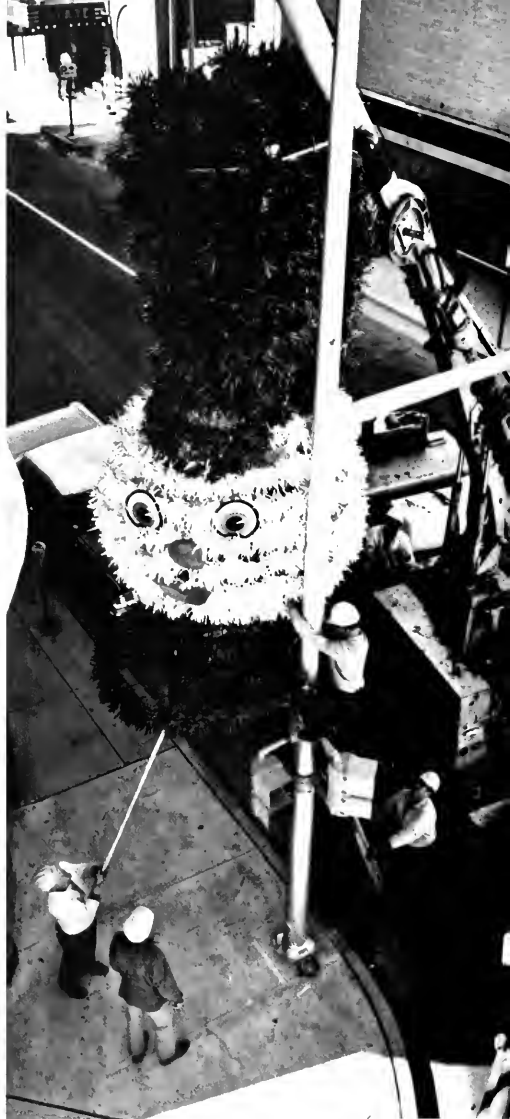

Everywhere students
Doing their thing
Cracking the books
Rapping in the P. R.
Snacking in the snackbar
Attending concerts
Cheering at football games
Making out on the grass
Freaking out on grass

you are not alone

And you feel superior to the freshmen
And graduation seems a distant dream
And so it might remain

KODAK TRI-X PAN FILM

The winter quarter begins when Greenville puts up its Christmas lights And winter is bleak and dreary with light snowfalls to break the monotony
 Winter is a passage from fall to spring
 Being a junior is having one more year after this
 A transition period from sophomore to senior
 A bleak and dreary passage of time
 Juniors are desperate
 they drop out
 they go into a slump

There is no frenzy to compare with that of a junior girl who is unpinned or has no fiancé who is unloved

and there are rumors
that many attempt suicide
But no official word on attempts or completions

just a flurry
of lights late at night in the infirmary
And a rumor

Spring
 has a sound and a magic all its own
 The trees flush green

students hit the grass again

barefoot becomes the word
 After knowing each other for a winter lovers unknowingly and caring less give lessons on the mall
 to gawking passersby

young married students or not Bring their babies to play on the mall
 It's there

right around the corner
 And seniors have a look and a magic all their own

a confidence
 a retribution
 a day of glory

and agony
 Spring is the time not to be blown

Spring is the final lunge
 towards graduation

Spring is the time
 to decide

Graduate school
 marriage
 Draft
 enlist business
 Peace Corps
 teach burn work

what and where The answers are not easy
 but the day comes

And the discomfort of archaic pageantry and ceremony

the pronouncement of the pundits
 the blessings of the Gods

You curse the means and cry at the end
 And the crying is not all in relief.

Some came in ignorance
Some with genius

a few were blind

A few were foreign

more than before were Black

Some were older
Some were younger

They studied, worked, loved, protested for and against

They painted, printed, typed, made it to create something

Some left freaks

Some left knowing the extent of their ignorance

A few left in defeat

None left unchanged.

for all of that Man's destiny is to die
 and the young laughing lovers
 Who are learning to live life together will be torn apart
 And one will cry upon the cold breast of the other
 And the trees of Youth are uprooted
 And the soil of Age is despoiled and though Man reach the Stars
 He still will not be able to call back the past
 He still will not be able to restore the lost and each of us must die
 And I cry for where am I where am I
 where am I

Enthusiasm

was the key to this year's Marching Pirates. Frost-bitten majorettes and the fallen arches of band members were also characteristics. Formations: Mickey Mouse, an umbrella, a crown. Choreography on a hundred-yard gridiron ended in a curved straight line. A spirited trip to Richmond was followed by a disappointing game with the Spiders. Then the rain came. At ECU's game with Furman, the Marching Pirates stood under the shelter of Ficklen Stadium's student section and competed with the sound of raindrops plunking in parking-lot puddles. Homecoming and Christmas parades and "that song" rounded out memories of the '69 season.

Evening

rehearsals, hours of practice, and tired eyes. Intent dedication by all concerned resulted in a successful year for the Symphony Orchestra and its conductor, Robert L. Hause. Missed cues and whispering cut-offs which frequented rehearsals were somehow corrected before performance. Determined efforts were rewarded with feelings of accomplishment. Each quarter brought concert worries as traditional compositions by Ravel, Franck, Debussy, and others were performed. Paul Kosower, Louise Spain, and Joe McCracken appeared as featured soloists in fall, winter, and spring concerts. In conjunction with the combined choruses, the orchestra presented Mozart's "Requiem Mass" in December. Each performance was also recorded in stereo and presented by WITN-FM and other FM stations in Eastern North Carolina.

Honored

once again, the Symphonic Band was invited by the National Conference of College Band Directors to perform at the University of Tennessee. Trips here and to the state where peaches grow were rewards for hard work. Four o'clock rehearsals every other day. Playing before thousands of high school students in the Atlanta area. Headache practice sessions for winter and spring concerts. Original compositions under renowned composer-conductors like East Carolina's Gregory Kosteck balanced the scope of the band. Sixty members spent an extra day on campus for the final performance of the year, commencement.

Football

season over, members of fall's Marching Pirates formed winter's Varsity Band. Chapped lips and numbed fingers handicapped cold-weather rehearsals. Ninety-five members were guided through one practice session after another by their director's comical, yet serious facial expressions. These expressions were trademarks of East Carolina's George Knight. Mr. Knight explained, "If it were not for this organization, many students would cease their involvement with music after marching season." Most of the music performed was in a traditional vein, but long hours were also spent in rehearsing modern compositions. For what? Two concerts in the spring, one formal and one done on grass. No, not that kind of grass!

Christmas spirits broaden the smiles of the men and women of the University Chorale.

Director Dr. Paul Aliapoulos pauses for a moment's reflection.

Watchword

for the University Chorale was "Watch, watch, watch!" Members watched and sang. They expressed their interest and enthusiasm in music. Men and women of the Chorale lent their voices to many musical programs throughout the year. Under the direction of Dr. Paul A. Aliapoulos, the group combined with other choruses and the orchestra to present in December Mozart's "Requiem Mass." The month of mistletoe heard the Chorale contribute to the Christmas Assembly. In conjunction with the Varsity Band, an April concert, requiring still more time and practice, was given. Included in the year's activities were assembly programs and concerts in high schools and in communities surrounding the Greenville area. It was a busy year. Hard, but fun.

Members of the Glee Club join other choruses for a Saturday rehearsal.

Men's Glee Club performs before East Carolina students in the annual Christmas assembly.

Activities

for the Men's Glee Club included listening to suggestions from members to plan future rehearsals at Lum's and hearing the boisterous laughter such proposals brought. Somewhere between the fun rehearsals the men sang a little. They enjoyed a little "fun in the sun" while accompanying the Women's Glee Club for joint concerts at the beach. They joined in concert with the St.

Mary's choir of Raleigh. Staging an overnight concert tour, the men traveled throughout the state and performed at high schools. On campus, the Men's Glee Club sang in Mozart's "Requiem Mass" and the Christmas Assembly. Members also enjoyed hearing director Brett Watson's temper tantrums disrupt rehearsals for the joint concert with the women in spring.

Wearing the dresses which they designed, forty members of the Women's Glee Club sing in concert.

Two women share a copy of Mozart's "Requiem Mass."

Members

of the Women's Glee Club spent long hours in designing dresses to be worn while singing. Then came sore hands from the cutting and poked thumbs from the sewing. Finally the dresses were finished and worn at the Christmas Assembly. Whew! One of the highlights of the year came in traveling to the beach to join the Men's Glee Club in concert. Another highlight was the group's singing in the "Requiem Mass." The women performed with their male counterparts once again for the spring concert in May. Miss Beatrice Chauncey and the Women's Glee Club represented the University off campus at assembly programs at local high schools throughout the year.

"Equivalent

to a national bowl bid in football," explained an enthusiastic Dr. Charles Moore of an invitation sent to the Concert Choir by the Choral Directors' Association. Another invitation of national importance was received from the Music Educators' National Conference meeting in the Windy City in March. April heard the Choir present the world premier of Gregory Kosteck's "Lamentations of Jeremiah." Tedious preparation and a precision performance. December activities included Mozart's "Requiem Mass" and the Christmas Assembly. October was the month for clinic participation under internationally-known Dr. Harold Decher. Each year the Concert Choir offers a scholarship of one hundred dollars to an entering freshman majoring in voice; this year Cheryl Linn Berry was the recipient.

Monday and Wednesday, three to four, every quarter. Although the Women's Chorus did not perform in any concert or participate in any musical assembly, its members strived toward perfection. Perfection in learning the techniques of vocal mechanics and choral singing. In her first year as director of the Chorus, Miss Peggy Starkey provided instruction in achieving this end. Concentration and dedication. Both were needed to gain success. Throughout the year, patriotic, sacred, classical, and folk music selections were studied. Popular numbers among members were songs from Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story." Two-and-three part ensembles were also studied. Various numbers were then taped and played back later for evaluation purposes.

Italian

operatic comedy. Performed by East Carolina's Opera Theater. Tuesday and Thursday rehearsals, two hours a day. Still last-minute adjustments frequented the days before the performance. Dr. Paul Aliapoulos portrayed the hero of Verdi's "Falstaff," and Dr. Clyde Hiss, the man responsible for producing and directing the scenes, starred as Ford. Following fall quarter's success, the Opera Theater presented scenes from Mozart's "Don Giovanni" in winter. This opera was highlighted by the unique lighting and staging of Allen Jones. "Living" statues and a journey into hell! Once again, Dr. Aliapoulos had the lead role. Scenes from another Mozart opera, "Marriage of Figaro," were also performed by an all-student cast. Rounding out the year's activities, Puccini's "La Boheme" and Verdi's "Don Carlos" were brought to the stage of the Recital Hall in spring.

"Fulfillment through musical service," motto for the Fidelio Society. Local communities received the benefits. Assemblies were given at local schools. Another assembly, of a special nature, was given at the Mowry Johnson camp for boys. Working closely with the School of Music, the Society's twenty-eight members provided other community services. Pre-schoolers at daycare centers were given a basic concept of music. One important aspect of the Society involved tutoring junior high and senior high school students in various areas of music. As a Halloween treat, a party was given at the Meadowbrook Day Care Center.

Fifty

members of the Fine Arts Committee planned events for the year. Chalk-ins, lectures, photo forays, contests. Characteristic of Greenville's weather, a rainstorm washed away the results of the Committee's first chalk-in, but a second one days later saw East Carolina students express their pent-up artistic thoughts on campus sidewalks. Three pieces of chalk for a dime or one for four cents. The Fine Arts Committee also sponsored Mike Flinn's presentation of an "Audio-Visual Experience" at the Union Coffeehouse in February. Winter was spent in organizing spring activities. There was a film festival displaying the unusual and creative talents of the modern student generation. Prizes were awarded for the best film and for the best entry in an Art Photo contest. More student work was shown in an Art Show and Sale in May, and later, an Artists' Ball.

night meetings every other week in room 212 of the University Union. In its tenth year on campus, the Poetry Forum sponsored a multitude of events. Recognized poets visited East Carolina via the North Carolina Poetry Circuit. Tar River Poets was once again published by the University's Poetry Forum Series. Other guests of noted importance, such as Finland's Anselm Hollo, were invited to speak. Expression, criticism, reading—goals of the Forum. Vernon Ward, the Forum's advisor and moderator, contributed his work, Of Dust and Stars, along with Thad Stem, Jr., Julia Fields, and Charleen Whisnant to January's "Poetry Fair." There were other activities: public readings were given on campus, at Methodist College in Fayetteville, and at St. Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg.

Nicknamed

the "Kings of the Highway" because of its extensive touring schedule, the U.S. Army Field Band performed for a small but interested audience in Wright Auditorium. Organized in 1946 as the official musical representative of the Department of the Army, the "Kings" played many popular favorites.

Greeted

with an enthusiasm seldom seen in performances of this nature. In its first American tour, the Osipov Balalaika Orchestra of Moscow opened the ECU Artists Series for 1969-70. Earning the respect and affection of its capacity crowd, soloists and dancers alike were called back for individual encores. Receiving three standing ovations, the orchestra ended the concert amid the applause and approval of its audience.

Twenty-two young boys stole the hearts of an East Carolina audience. Performing before a standing-room only crowd, the Vienna Choir Boys presented religious selections, an Offenbach operetta, and Viennese waltzes. Most popular was Johann Strauss' "The Blue Danube." Called back for an encore, the Choir sang "Oh, Suzanna" with "something of an accent."

Five

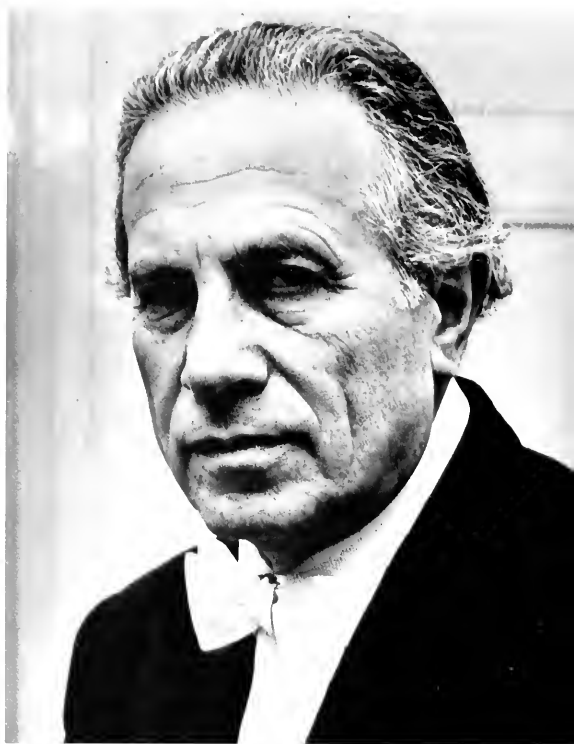

standing ovations! Three encore numbers, each more popular than the last. The man responsible? Artur Rubinstein, master pianist. Schubert, Beethoven, Debussy, and Chopin provided the music performed before the thrilled listeners who packed into Wright Auditorium. Eighty-six years old, Rubinstein gave a superb performance which made February 2 an evening to remember.

Renowned

throughout the world, Stockholm's Philharmonic Orchestra, appearing under the direction of Antal Dorati, rounded out the Artists Series' concerts for February. Colorful, Dynamic. Versatile. All described this orchestra's brilliance. Highly accomplished, the orchestra quickly earned the respect and encouragement of its audience.

Henryk Szerynig,

Summertree portrays the ideals of youthful love and understanding ...

Contemporary

drama for a contemporary audience. Written by twenty-two year old Ron Cowen, Summertree was a memory play and a subtle questioning to today's problems: loss of identity, Vietnam, the "generation gap." Zora Shakow, East Carolina's guest director-in-residence, cast Rock Kershaw as the Young Man, an ambiguous symbol personal to all. Realism was achieved through reminiscent moments universal in meaning and familiar to everyone's childhood. One massive tree stood as the central character; each character represented a limb and each limb a character. Often tender, sometimes cold, Summertree cast its shadow across the audience. The mood: tragic. The problem: all too common. The answer: still a question.

... as well as the hate and mistrust of an unpopular war.

A Thousand

Clowns closed the season for the Playhouse. Written by Herb Gardner, the story revolved around the happy-go-lucky character of Murray Burns, portrayed by Mark Ramsey. Reluctant to seek either worthwhile employment or a spouse, Murray wished to become the lawful guardian of his nephew Nick. After many zany antics, the hapless hero accepted his role in the "establishment." Steady income from a steady job would not really be so bad. Nor would his marriage to a pretty lass named Sandra, played by Nancy Cherry. Tommy Miller starred as Nick. His capricious actions and mischievous nature were shared with the audience. Murray and Nick were, in truth, "a thousand clowns."

Season opener

for the East Carolina Playhouse, Finian's Rainbow was alive with song and dance. Especially dance. Choreography by Mavis Ray. Superb mixture of social candidness and mellow sentiment made the play a success. Each performance boasted standing room only. Cast in starring roles were veteran actor Mark Ramsey as Finian, Victoria Summers as his daughter Sharon, and Jim Longacre as the man she loved. Most remembered, perhaps, were the characters of Og the Leprechaun, portrayed by James Slaughter, and Susan the Silent, played by Nancy Mellichamp. Highlighting this humorous story of a scheming Irishman's "lend-leasing" a magic pot-o-gold were these songs: "How Are Things in Gloccamorra?", "When I'm Not Near the Girl I Love," and "Old Devil Moon."

Camille enjoys flirting with the Chandebrises' housemaid.

French comedy

successfully brought to East Carolina. Suggested for the mature, A Flea in Her Ear had the audience literally aching with laughter. Directions, setting, costumes. Edgar Loessin, John Sneden, and Margaret Gillfillan once again combined their golden touches. Cast in the lead role of the gentleman, Chandebrise, was Ben Cherry, who also portrayed Poche, a look-alike servant at the "Hotel Pussycat." James Leedom played the difficult role of the would-be lover without a pallet. Supporting characters lent their many talents by emphasizing the obvious through gestures, expressions, and tone. A Flea in Her Ear brought the house to its feet night after night.

Explanations are offered to the wives and husband of Flea.

Macbeth broods over the ambitious prophecy which has made him a traitor to both his nation and himself.

Bloody daggers and witches' brew. Macbeth played to capacity crowds for six nights in February. Shakespearean tragedy at its best. Students of local high schools enjoyed the special performance given solely for their benefit on Monday. Thursday, a special matinee for everyone. Under the direction of Edgar Loessin, Macbeth was well-received. Claude Woolman and Amanda Muir, both veterans of the New York stage, were featured in the roles of the ambitious king and his queen. Realism was strengthened by the contrasting personalities of the supporting cast. No less important were the detailed and exacting costumes and sets provided by Margaret Gilfillan and John Snedon.

Giving the students a voice in the administration, the Board of Trustees invited the SGA President and Speaker of the Legislature to sit in on their meetings. Only a voice, no vote. “ ‘Do-nothing’ legislature run by ‘fearsome three-some.’” So read the headline in an edition of the student newspaper. Condemned by some and praised by others. Dissatisfaction stemmed from disputes throughout the year. The major area of conflict within the Student Government Legislature concerned appropriations to the Rebel, one of the five All-American publications of its type in the nation.

In other actions, the legislature approved the constitution of the East Carolina League of University Scholars, among many others. Funds for a campus transit system were appropriated and a proposal for refrigerator rentals for dormitories was passed by the legislature. Other legislation: New student, faculty, and staff ID regulations; a proposal for a pass-fail grading system for course electives and offset printing for the Fountainhead.

Major legislative action of the year was abolishment of Summer School Student Government. To provide continuity in the executive branch, future SGA officers will serve for twelve month terms. In addition to receiving a regular salary, the University will pay for their Summer School tuition as well.

Nothing.

In 1970, Senior Class officers were unable to accomplish anything. Following in the same tradition, the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman Class officers came to the same end.

"Apathy. Lack of cooperation. No class funds." These were the reasons cited by class officers for their failure to initiate or complete anything. Elected in the fall of each year, class officers have in the past attempted such projects as selling class blazers and entering a float in the Homecoming parade. Even these attempts met with little success. This year, class officers did not sponsor or undertake any project.

Adams, also known as Robert K. Adams, upset his University Party opponent to head the Summer School Student Government Association. Basing his platform on improvement of the communications between the student government and the wants of the student, Adams arranged for the distribution to students of the minutes of each legislature meeting and for earlier opening hours for the student union. Seven-thirty instead of eight o'clock. Other SGA business: endorsement of the Biafra fund drive and, for the first time in the school's history, an off-campus Summer School dance at the American Legion Hut. Completing platform promises, the Summer School administration provided for student hostesses in women's dormitories in the evenings from five-thirty until six-thirty. Final action insured repair of the public address system in Green dormitory after two months of silence.

Innovations

characterized the Publications Board for 1970. A year marked by action, determination, and temerity. For the first time in the history of the University, the Publications Board elected a student chairman, Chip- per Linville. A new image. Investigating the possibility of other changes, Linville appointed a special Reorganization Committee, headed by Professor Ira Baker. The purpose? To study the by-laws of Publication Boards of colleges and universities throughout the nation. The end result: to provide completely new by-laws for the Publications Board. Professor Baker advocated complete independence from the SGA in the future.

In December, a motion was made proposing the feasibility of publishing the Fountainhead more than twice a week. Publications Board members approved the proposal. Summarizing the Publications Board's activity for the year, Chairman Chip Linville stated, "1970 was a year of progress, one in which the Publications Board brought about many innovations which were quite necessary in a growing university with publications of such a high caliber as those at East Carolina."

eyes, Excedrin headaches, and that tired let-down feeling. Soothed by a little understanding and a lot of dedication. Struggling with a stubborn SGA budget committee presented almost more problems for the yearbook staff than trying to meet deadlines. Spirits were lifted fall quarter, however, when Donna Dixon, Editor-in-chief, journeyed with other staff members to Miami for the ACP convention. Chaos and disorganization overwhelmed the staff before "Turkey Day" holidays when the office was denuded and painted.

Major features of the largest Buccaneer ever include a photo-essay of controversial aspects of student involvement. Like Moratorium Day, protest marches to the Tar River, and the Presentation of demands to Dr. Jenkins by the black students. The year was not "all work and no play." Mrs. Sorenson, the staff adviser, hosted a Christmas party in December. Climaxing the year was the banquet at the Candlewick Inn in May. Even more important—the arrival of the 1970 Buccaneer.

Lack

of sufficient staff members all year presented worrisome headaches for the Fountainhead, student newspaper. Other hindrances included a broken verityper and the temporary loss of essential photo reduction wheels fall quarter. Adding to such problems, dissatisfied students initiated a campus-wide petition demanding an investigation into the operation of the Fountainhead.

Even under these setbacks, the Fountainhead maintained an admirable record of success. Started the year by changing the name of the newspaper from the East Carolinian to the Fountainhead. In November, the staff celebrated Homecoming with a special twenty-eight page, two-section, color issue. Having converted to offset print earlier in the year, the Fountainhead staff secured a correspondent in Washington, D.C. and received Associated Press wire service. The service was a first among North Carolina colleges and universities.

Rebel

was simply "divoon." So was the opinion of most readers of The Rebel, East Carolina's student literary magazine. Awards for the year included a sizable monetary grant from The North Carolina Arts Council and the All-American Honor Rating from the Associated Collegiate Press, ranking The Rebel as one of the top five student magazines in America. Reaching further depths in the pioneering of the total visual experience, the editors displayed the vital modification of literal comprehension through subjective cohesion and graphic interpretation.

Everything from religion to sociological problems. Home-cooked meals followed student communion. In the spring, the group visited Washington, D. C., where they met with governmental and religious leaders. Adding a casual touch to the year, students participating in the Canterbury Club relaxed via trips to the beach.

Such as sponsoring the annual Purple and Gold football game in April. Played by the Pirates in Ficklen Stadium, the game enabled selected FCA members to attend a regional athletic camp. Striving to "confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of following Christ through the fellowship of church," the FCA met at least once a month at the Presbyterian Student Center on Ninth Street for a dinner meeting.

Affiliated with the National American Chemical Society, the local branch received weekly chemical publications and invitations to all meetings of the national organization. Clemson, South Carolina, welcomed students to the Southeastern Regional meeting for 1970.

On the local level, the club discussed current topics pertaining to the scientific world of chemistry and sponsored a tutoring service for chemistry students on campus. Socially, student affiliates attended a masquerade party hosted by Dr. William K. H. Hu and a Christmas party given by Dr. and Mrs. Paul Ayers. Fall quarter, the Society raised funds with a spaghetti dinner. In the spring, a pancake dinner to raise money for the Oak Ridge trip.

The scene of AFROTC's first blood drive of the year. Red Cross needles punctured the arms of 300 nervous ECU students as they donated a pint of their blood to help save lives. Two blood drives during the year. Frightened football players were comforted by the "angels" of Angel Flight. Free coffee and cookies. An excused cut from class.

AFROTC was mindful of its civic duties in other ways. Early in February the men of the drill team wore out shoe leather as they marched so that others might walk. The Marchathon called upon others to collect donations. Displaying their precision movements, the team marched in downtown Greenville until their goal had been reached. Concerned citizens contributed $3,789.45.

Men

of East Carolina's detachment did more. They studied the principles of leadership while learning the necessity of knowing how to follow. They measured their "brass," and polished their shoes, and checked for their "ropes." They experienced the tediousness of review. During fall and spring, the cadets made use of the drill field as they learned to execute skilled movements on command. In winter, the cadets received briefings on the life of an Air Force officer. Pilot and navigator exams were given. Competition brought the rewards of promotion.

AFROTC's candidate for Homecoming Queen, Jenny Legget, was one of the six finalists in the competition. There was a "Dining-In" in January with President Jenkins as the featured speaker. Proud of the University's detachment, he stressed the importance of the military in today's world. Other remembered events of the year included trips to local Air Force bases.

Application of these principles through participation in inter-collegiate debating tournaments gave the members a chance to develop their skills. Encouraging debates within the state by hosting a high school debate tournament kept the group busy during the year. What? When?

Why? The "what" was easy: the Philosophy Club. The "when" was easier: bi-weekly meetings at pre-determined locations. The "why" was more difficult: to discuss philosophical topics. Such as a paper on the concept of God by Professor Houston Craighead. Topics such as "Why, Why?" and "Existentialism" provided other areas of discussion. In an informal situation outside the classroom, students were given an opportunity to discuss philosophical problems. In this intellectual atmosphere further relaxation was afforded by refreshments which followed each meeting.

Students received insight into all aspects of the Spanish culture. In November, members were invited to wear their "sombros" and learn the Flamingo as the club sponsored dancing lessons. At their first meeting fall quarter, members of the Student National Education Association heard a speech by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins. In November, Dr. Elizabeth Welch, head of the Department of Education and Psychology at Salem College, spoke to members on the "Education of a Communist." Fall district conferences in Elizabeth City, Planning conferences at the NCEA center in Raleigh, Regional meetings in Laurinburg. Joining with the Association of Childhood Education, the SNEA invited Mrs. Janet H. Petterson of the Geography Department to the spring dinner meeting. The program: Mrs. Petterson's African tour. Starched, spotless uniforms. An aura of professionalism. Social unity among student nurses was paramount in all phases of the Student Nurses Association. Promoting closer contact between their organization and the N. C. Student Nurses Association, the local chapter collected clothes and toys at Christmas for children at the Dobb's Farm in Kinston and the O'Berry Center in Cherry Hospital. Visits came regularly from a variety of speakers. Fall quarter, a Greenville attorney lectured on the legal aspects of nursing. Liable laws and malpractice suits. In January, the SNA heard an Army representative tell about the Army Nurse Corps. Among spring activities were mailing Easter Seals to Greenville residents. In April, officers were installed at the annual banquet. Marion Howard, SNA president explained of the group's activities, "We have tried to inform as many students as possible this year about the various aspects of a nursing career."

Dwindling

membership. No candidates for summer school elections. First to appear on campus in 1966, the Student Party ceased to exist in 1970. Dis-satisfaction with political parties and lack of interest in student government led to the demise of the SP. Before the Student Party finally collapsed, it claimed two executive offices in the SGA: vice-president and historian.

Problems claim the attention of Steve Sharpe, Student Party Chairman.

Members Dan Sumners and Steve Sharpe pinpoint campaign strategy.

University Party. Gerald Robertson, President; Judy Morris, Secretary.

No candidates.

For the first time since its inception on campus, the University Party did not support or run a slate of candidates in spring SGA elections. Rumors spread that the party "machine" no longer existed. Some were disillusioned; others were elated.

University Party accomplishments: During the summer session, "Coins for Crew." Door-to-door collections in the dormitories to help the ECU Crew rebuild after a crippling fire. Over $150 was donated. Endorsement of the Biafra Fund Drive. More phones in women's dormitories. Round table discussions allowing students to air complaints and contribute opinions. A no-curfew dormitory for coeds.

In summer school elections, UP candidates suffered defeat as an independent platform swept SGA executive offices. Fall quarter, a renewed interest in campus politics rejuvenated the University Party. Over twenty-five of those running on the UP ticket were victorious.

Campus problems are demanding: the Party listens to recommendations.

Attracting students into the profession of special education, the Student Council for Exceptional Children served as an outlet for the handiwork of exceptional children in sheltered workshops. Curler bags, burlap pocket-books, and pillows. Only a few of the items sold by SCEC members for the exceptional children. Not only were members able to work with exceptional children in a social context, but they also aided in the children's socialization process. Since East Carolina's council wanted to encourage cooperation between other state chapters, it printed a state federation newsletter. Providing an on-campus outlet for special education news, the group also published a local newsletter.

Activities

of the Woman's Recreation Association covered a wide range of events. From field hockey to swimming and tennis to gymnastics. Organization. Supervision. Adding a competitive spirit, intramural volleyball, basketball, and softball league were available for sororities and dormitory students. In more specialized areas, clubs such as the Aquanymphs, a synchronized swimming group. Only for these who were willing to devote long hours of practice. A modern dance club offered an opportunity to perfect special dancing skills.

Woman

Power was here in the form of East Carolina's W o m a n ' s R e s i d e n c e C o u n c i l. Organized, active, and sensitive to the demands of women students, the council aspired to new heights of service during the year. Guided by the wishes of the women students, this body worked with Dean Fulghum to bring about changes in living conditions, co-operation, and more consideration among dormitory students.

Up-to-the-minute ideas prevailed: plans for an all-night dorm, revisions in rules, later hours, and new freshman regulations. Women began to voice opinions, and Green Dormitory was just the place to be heard. The new WRC office was located there.

The WRC offered women students not only an opportunity to become involved but also a chance to get ahead by offering an emergency loan fund with up to twenty dollars available on a short-term basis. Other services included awarding the Ruth White Scholarship to an outstanding dormitory woman.

color televisions, and refrigerators. The Men's Residence Council was responsible for the installation of three color televisions and ice machines on the "Hill" and endorsement of the SGA's drive for refrigerators in the men's dormitories.

Initiating major changes, the MRC sponsored a dorm visitation day when coeds were able to visit men students in their rooms. Later, studies were made for the possibility of opening the dormitory basements to girls every weekend. New office hours, more lights for the tennis and basketball courts, and spring dances were provided by the MRC for the men students. Winter quarter, a search for the "Ugliest Man on Campus" proved to be an effective method of raising funds.

Lobbying for lowering the voting age in North Carolina to eighteen, the Young Democrats Club endorsed the October Moratorium and attended the state-wide convention in Raleigh. According to Sonny McLawhorn, executive committee member, "Bringing the rally to Greenville would revive the long needed interest in Democratic organizational work in this area." Large crowds witnessed the arguments.

A state-wide YRC convention fall quarter. Resulting action: ratification of a statement of principles and increased cooperation with the Pitt County Executive Board in assisting the State Republican party. Projects for the year included distribution of the Young Republican Newsletter, presentation of the Young Republican of the Year Award, and efforts to reform the chapter constitution.

Janet Flint, Dean Fulghum, Panhellenic Pres. Fran Kay and Assistant Dean Nancy Smith discuss rush details.

communication, eight different creeds brought closer together, eight different sisterhoods acting as one. Striving to serve widely and wisely, Panhellenic undertook such projects as aiding a sheltered workshop and supporting a Korean orphan. Rush: so many forms and Convocation too. All under the direction of the Panhellenic Council. Complete revision of rules concerning formal rush concentrated the ambitions of Panhellenic members. What about Formal Rush during fall quarter? Panhellenic members considered it. New and different ideas for a more progressive sorority system.

Inter-Fraternity Council. Top to Bottom: Charlie Strickland, President; Martin Lassiter, Treasurer; Frank Muir, Vice-President; Steve Rouso, Secretary.

Initiating

another productive year, the Inter-Fraternity Council set the pace for fraternal projects and served as the governing body for East Carolina's twelve social fraternities. Exhibiting a spirit of cooperation, IFC coordinated Greek participation in the UNICEF drive during fall quarter. Sarcasm, satire, and just plain comedy insured a successful Skit Night for Greek Week. Lots of mud with plenty of spirit. Dodging mud puddles and beer cans while enjoying their favorite beverages, Greeks and their guests were impressed with the "performance" of Archie Bell and the Drells at Mosier's farm. Greek achievements of the year were recognized by awards given at the annual IFC banquet. The banquet marked the last official duty of outgoing President Charlie Strickland.

Prepare

to meet thy doom! These words were issued as a warning to all sororities across the EC campus as Sigma Chi Delta Derby Day, 1969, proved to be larger than ever. Derby Day consisted of a mad, hysterical week when the sororities competed to win favor of the brothers and pledges of Sigma Chi Delta. During Derby Week, sororities showed their spirit in many ways. Refreshing keg parties, devastating house raids, hilarious skits, and cook-outs that made the brothers want to eat out more often. Exemplified only a small portion of the sorority spirit during Derby Week. The day before Derby Day brought on the Derby Chase. Usually on the mall, but because of flash floods and tornado warnings, the Derby Chase was held in the "indoor arena" of the Sigma Chi Delta house. After the Derby Chase, the sororities counted their derbies while the surviving brothers desperately searched for their wounded and missing. Derby Day: a time of chaos and madness.

of the "Hill" was the scene of Lambda Chi's competitive Field Day events. Sororities left lady-like conduct behind as they donned blue jeans and sweatshirts to tackle obstacle courses, and the sack and relay races. Coordination and skill were evident as contestants performed difficult feats such as diving through tires on the obstacle course. Trying to get completely through. Tension mounted as the girls readied themselves to make sure that they avoided slipping into the man-made mud hole during the tug-of-war. Accumulating the most points, the Alpha Phis hobbled off the field carrying top honors. The survivors were cordially invited to the Lambda Chi Alpha house to drink away their aches and pains.

No talking to any coed and no shaving for one week. These were the basic rules for the Phi Kappa Taus as they sponsored the annual Woman Hater's Week in November. During the week, devastating raids on the Phi Tau house at two o'clock in the morning. Unfortunate girls caught by a Phi Tau were attacked with everything from shaving cream to red paint. Sorority houses did not escape from the onslaught either as determined Phi Taus waged their relentless war on females. At the end of the week, brothers with a high number of points were enclosed in a cage on the mall where infuriated sorority sisters sought revenge and bombarded the brothers with flour, mud, and eggs. The unlucky brother with the highest number of points found himself hoisted up a tree. A perfect target for anything the girls could throw.

Recognized for more raids on the Phi Tau house than any other sorority, Chi Omegas received the trophy for their participation. Alpha Omicron Pi won honorable mention for the most continuous participation in the week's events.

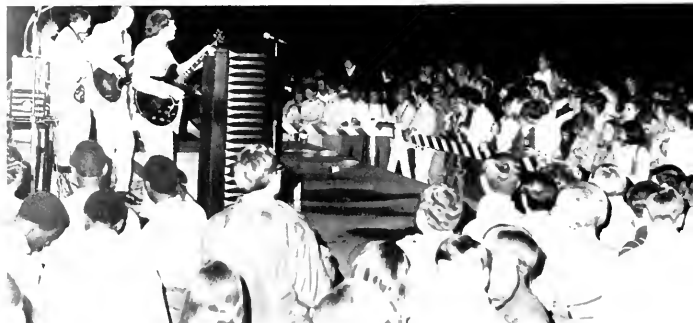

Tension

backstage, a spotlight failure, and a packed auditorium characterized the Alpha Xi Delta Greek All-Sing. The general theme was "Up, Up, and Away" as sororities and fraternities came together in musical competition and talent exhibition. Judged on adherence to the theme, originality, tone quality, performance, and appearance, participating Greeks spent hours in rehearsals. Alpha Phi, first place winners among sororities, sang a medley of songs depicting the history of aviation. Peter Pan, the first airplane, the Red Baron, the Air Force and the astronauts on the moon were included. For the fraternities, Phi Kappa Tau took the honors for the third straight year. Forming their own band, the Phi Taus sang arrangements of "Don't Let the Sun Catch You Crying," and "The Sun Ain't Gonna Shine Anymore."

Field events,

skits, and entertainment from "The Marlboros," and "Peggy Scott and Jo Jo Benson." Highlights of the annual Greek Week. Starting the week with Greek Games, enthusiastic pledges from the various fraternities participated in a three-legged race, a sixty-yard dash, and a wheelbarrow race. Sore muscles and cramped legs.

As the week progressed, the fraternities presented in Wright Auditorium "original" skits for the amusement of all ECU Greeks. Awards for various accomplishments proved to be a major feature of the scheduled events. After all the awards, skits, and athletic events were completed, the most anticipated event of all descended upon the Greeks and their guests—the weekend concerts. "Bob's Barn" provided the site for a dance, which featured the "Tempests" and "Peggy Scott and Jo Jo Benson." Climaxing Greek Week, a concert at Mosier's farm was marked by a brief outburst resulting from Greek rivalries.

Coronation of queen by APO member Wayne Murschell.

Penny votes

and a giant snowball suspended from the ceiling of Wright Auditorium. Benefiting the Pitt County Crippled Children's Association, the sixteenth annual White Ball highlighted the month of March. The "O'Kaysions" provided plenty of soul music for the evening. Sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity. White Ball, for the first time, an informal event.

Happy Hour

at the ADPi house, news that one of the sisters received the Outstanding Greek Woman of the Year Award, Friday afternoon beer-runs to Schellars—all of these events produced a memorable year for the ADPi's. Safari hats and shades failed to conceal ADPi beauties: Derby Day Queen, three fraternity sweethearts, and runner-up for Homecoming Queen. Striving to aid the community, Alpha Delta Pi utilized their talents to aid the Pitt County Fund and the Cancer Drive.

Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Goofy and other Disney characters came to life and handed the ADPi's a first place award for Homecoming house decorations. In December, the sisters traveled to Kinston with the Phi Taus to amuse underprivileged orphans at the Kennedy home. Completing the year, the always busy ADPi's hosted a Founder's Day and traveled to Phoenix, Arizona, for their national convention. Thus the finishing touches were added to the year.

Burglars

in the basement and ghosts in the attic. Hysteria prevailed as terrified sisters barricaded themselves in their rooms with butcher knives and flashlights. If that were not enough . . . clay pipes. To say the least, life at the AOII house was never dull. Sorority events included both charitable and social aspects: a faculty basketball game with proceeds donated to the Arthritis Foundation, sacks of clothing collected by concerned AOIIs for the Greenville Sheltered Workshop, and a Christmas party during Winter quarter for mentally retarded children. AOII fortitude prevailed as they gave part of themselves during the AFROTC Blood Drive. Anaemic but happy, they received a plaque recognizing their efforts. Winners of Phi Kappa Tau's award for continued participation in Woman Hater's Week. In the Alpha Xi Delta Greek All-Sing, AOIIs went "out of this world" to take second place honors. They even had their own celebrity: Patti Stimmel, Miss Greenville. Spring . . . sisters always on the go planning a formal Rose Ball and Beach Weekend.

War?

This is sorority life? Even under constant attack by the "Tekes," the Alpha Phis proved their strategy something to be reckoned with as they survived the onslaught and walked away with Lambda Chi Alpha Field Day trophy. Jubilation overwhelmed the entire house in October when Diane Spry was crowned Buccaneer Queen for 1970. More followed! The Alpha Phis won by a nose as they captured second place in the Homecoming parade float division for their characterization of "Pinocchio and the Whale." Many long hours of diligent practice and rehearsal proved worthwhile when Alpha Phis were declared winners of the annual Greek All-Sing sponsored by Alpha Xi Delta. Emphasis on community events proved an important facet of Alpha Phi life. Sponsoring a foster child in the Greenville area and working for the Arthritis and Cardiac Drive marked the Alpha Phis' contribution to the improvement of national and local social conditions.

A Φ Ω

First around

the moon, ΑΦΩ's proudly claim Jim Lovell, Apollo XIII astronaut, as one of their own, especially since he wore his fraternity pin during the famous flight around the moon. Applying their three cardinal principles—leadership, service, and friendship—the ΑΦΩ's performed countless projects throughout the year. Collecting for UNICEF, the United Fund, and working for the Tuberculosis Association, the ΑΦΩ's maintained yearly service for the community. In 1970 the brothers extended their usual services by bringing homeless children from the Oddfellow Orphanage in Greensboro to enjoy East Carolina basketball. Responsible for the smooth functioning of numerous campus activities, they distributed The Key each year and ushered at the "free flicks" and international films. Who was responsible for the biggest social event of Winter Quarter? The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega. First in outer space and first in service—phrases that described the achievements of East Carolina's service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega.

Short silver

dresses and shimmering stockings set the mood for Alpha Xi Delta Greek All-Sing. Hosting this annual display of Greek talent, the Alpha Xis provided the needed sparkle that relieved the "blahs" that often precede Christmas holidays. A cocktail party rejuvenated spirits during an indescribable Homecoming. Winter quarter included a festive Thanksgiving banquet and a visit from the "fat man" himself! Serious participation in the Heart Fund and the Cancer Drive engaged the Alpha Xis in community interests. All sisters at the Alpha Xi House worked together to plan Parents' Day, Alumnae Tea, and Pink Rose Ball. Driving spirit seemed the watchword of Alpha Xi Delta in 1970.

No more could happen in one year. Bombarded relentlessly by the Phi Taus during Woman Hater's Week, the Chi O's proved they were made of "tough stuff" as they survived the rigors of "Phi Tau War" and emerged victorious to capture the trophy. For homecoming, the Chi Omegas took top honors when Susan Walton, first runnerup in the Miss North Carolina pageant, was chosen homecoming queen for 1970. Chi Omegas, learning the joy of sharing, teamed with Delta Sigma Pi to entertain underprivileged children at a Christmas party. In March, an Easter egg hunt. Pride in sorority achievements: first in scholarship and recipients of Pi Kappa Phi's most outstanding sorority award. True sisterhood abounded each afternoon when Chi Omegas congregated to watch "soapies" on the "tube." For the pledges, formal presentation at White Carnation. Apathy was practically non-existent at the Chi Omega House. Seven sisters held membership in the student legislature, and five others were elected class officers.

Only one year old and the Delta Sigs had already established an outstanding scholarship record—the highest overall average of all Greeks on campus. As proof, many brothers claimed membership in professional and honorary fraternities. With all their studying, they managed to find time for various civic and campus-related activities. What did it take to accomplish such feats? Lots of Alka-Seltzer and plenty of determination, brothers said. Numerous fund-raising projects and social events such as Founder's Day, Sailor's Ball, and the Carnation Ball highlighted the year. Winter quarter: a Christmas party given with the AOII's for mentally retarded children. To raise funds for their pledge class, fall quarter pledges raffled a gift certificate worth fifteen dollars.

Happy times,

sad times, a house filled with loving, sharing, giving, growing—an atmosphere overflowing with the spirit of sisterhood. All of this soon became memory as the Delta Zetas with mixed emotions awaited the completion of their new house.

A year bubbling with activity marked one of the biggest yet for Delta Zetas. A Flea Market drew an interested crowd to purchase original Delta Zeta creations. Weekends of chaotic fun in the past. In the present, a Province Weekend. Who knew?—Anything could happen when the Delta Zetas hit Las Vegas for a convention in June.

To complete the excitement of Christmas, the Delta Zetas added their own touch of brightness to the holiday season by sponsoring a party for underprivileged children. Pride in winning a second place for Homecoming decorations and a Dream Dance in May climaxed the year with the Delta Zetas.

Rebel yell

and Confederate salute. All a part of Kappa Alpha's preservation of the Southern tradition. During Old South weekend, the brothers and pledges took a step back in time. Months in advance, beards began to show on KA faces as they attempted to set the mood for their journey to the past. Mint juleps in hand, the brothers were transformed into Confederate soldiers and their dates into Southern belles.

Robert E. Lee, embodying all the traditions for which KA exemplifies, was honored at Convivium when the KA Rose, Susan Walton, was selected. A weekend of cocktail parties. Even a sweetheart song.

The KAs found that the best remedy for class pressures seemed to be frequent trips to the beach. On the move not only to the beach but also on campus, the Kappa Alphas received first place honors in IFC Greek Week competition.

For Homecoming, the pledges entertained with a reception for alumnae and worked hard preparing a winning parade float.

Kidnapping one of the sisters and abandoning her at the "Old Jail" proved to be a disastrous attempt for the pledge class. Decorating the main staircase with "unmentionables," the pledges really surprised the sisters during Homecoming. If a sister happened to be caught "snaking" another sister's date, she probably would have found herself tied to a tree behind the Kappa Sigma house. Or she may have discovered her car draped with toilet paper and string.

Representing Kappa Delta in campus affairs, sisters served as marshalls, cheerleaders, and in the student legislature. Spring quarter activities: White Rose Ball and weekend beach trips to Emerald Isle.

at every window. What was so special about Umstead dormitory? During "off hours," when they were not keeping an eye on Umstead, the brothers were always ready for a party in their party room or in the "rum runner," which is better for small get-togethers. Party facilities at the house were completed spring quarter with the addition of a patio, ideal for parties and spring weekends.

Fall quarter, an all-out effort for Homecoming swept Kappa Sigmas to a first place victory for their outstanding float decorations. Participation and victory. Service and fun. Efficient organization afforded the brothers the time to show again their initiative in aiding, throughout the year, the UNICEF drive, the United Fund, and the Blood Drive.

Lighthearted

glimpses of Lambda Chi life. Fishing trips to Oriental. A tug-of-war between one of the brothers and an Opel. Aiding in the spring physical fitness program, Lambda Chis sponsored Field Day to help keep sorority girls in shape. An exhibition which proved amusing for the athletically inclined Lambda Chis. Among the serious occasions celebrated was Robert E. Lee Day.

There were countless exhibitions of brotherhood. Teaching special speech and driving courses. The great outdoors saw an equal amount of activity. Egg hunts benefited the underprivileged children. Contributions aided the Arthritis and Heart Funds.

Instead of "Grazin' in the Grass," the Lambda Chis ran. Right into a string of trophies. Second in the President's Cup for field events. First in tennis, softball, and golf. Those who did not run apparently studied. The result? The scholarship trophy for the highest academic average among fraternities.

Woman Haters

at work! Shaving cream, paint, eggs, flour, and molasses bombarded brave coeds daring to raid the Phi Tau house during their annual Woman Hater's Week in November. Midnight raids as sororities battled for the title of "Most Hated Woman." Chaos coupled with fun added a vigorous spirit prior to Homecoming festivities.

Returning from summer vacation, the brothers and pledges manned the ladders and brushes as they began painting the exterior of their house. Formal rush parties, football games, and weekend bashes in the backyard party room entertained the Phi Taus fall quarter.

Before Christmas, a Brother-Pledge banquet at the Candlewick Inn featured a steak dinner and a serenade for the fraternity sweetheart. Christmas zeal overtook the Phi Tau house as the brothers sponsored a Christmas party for the underprivileged children in Kinston. Parties at the American Legion building and with the Pikas highlighted fall and winter quarters.

More serious moments included Parents' Weekend and Founder's Day. Providing food for needy families in the Greenville area and participating in the Red Cross Blood Drive emphasized Phi Tau community efforts. On campus, the Phi Taus were well represented as two of the brothers claimed the positions of president and treasurer in the SGA. Phi Taus also served on various committees, attended State Student Legislature, and held membership on the Men's Judiciary.

Water balloons
and mummy disguises. Surprise raids on the Delta Zetas and nocturnal "gang" activities in the attic kept Pikas laughing throughout the year. Coeds found the area surrounding the Pika house to be a "no man's land" as the brothers bombarded everything in sight with water balloons. The mummy mask seemed to be the perfect way to terrorize anyone passing their house.

Games, prizes, and laughing children. Pikas and Sigmas entertained needy children at the Sigma house in November. For Homecoming, a cocktail party, a jazz trio, and a combo party at the house. Artistic efforts were rewarded as the brotherhood captured second place for house decorations.

Building enthusiasm for Christmas, the pledges treated the brothers to a gag gift party. For once, the pledges "got even" with the brothers. Pikas and Delta Zetas spread cheer with a visit to the Greenville Convalescent and Nursing Home. Christmas carols. Baskets of fruit and candy. Starting the New Year off with more parties, the Pikas and Phi Taus met at the Pika basement for a combo party.

Spring quarter activities: a buffet honoring parents, an Easter egg hunt for faculty children, and a championship basketball game with the Theta Chis. Ending the year, Pikas rented a flatbed truck to transport brothers and dates to Mosier's farm during Greek Week.

Giving

their all proved worthwhile for the Pi Kaps as they compiled numerous awards during the year. Ranged from a first place victory for Homecoming house decorations to second place for the Homecoming float, and capture of the President's Cup in intramurals.

Ghosts, goblins, and witches with broomsticks provided the theme for a Halloween Haunted House with the Tri Sigmas to aid the Heart Fund Drive. Rating television coverage, this event provided thrills and excitement for many underprivileged children. Tremendous fraternity effort and cooperation resulted in a high national ranking for Phi Kappa Phi fraternity.

Naming Stephanie Standafer as the fraternity sweetheart marked the year's first activity. In February, Parent's Weekend and a banquet honoring Dean of Men, James Mallory, at the Holiday Inn, Derby Day, beach weekend at Nag's Head, and a cocktail party for alumni highlighted spring quarter. In Campus activities, brothers served in the student legislature, the Review Board, and the Men's Honor Council.

Snowball

fights with the Delta Zetas and water fights with the Sigmas kept traditional rivalries alive throughout the year with Sigma Phi Epsilon. Fall quarter, the Sig Eps hosted Founder's Day with a banquet at the house. Dr. Jenkins and state Attorney General Robert Morgan highlighted a buffet for alumni during Homecoming in November. Serving the community, Sig Eps entertained underprivileged children with a Halloween party. One hundred percent participation in the Red Cross blood drive exemplified Sig Eps' desire to benefit charity.

Traveling to Wilson, the brothers met with Sigma Phi Epsilon chapters from Duke, N. C. State, Atlantic Christian, and UNC for a district athletic day. Initiating new ideas, Sig Eps organized the "Little Sisters of the Golden Heart" who helped with rush parties, Homecoming decorations, and general clean-up around the house. Honoring the fraternity sweetheart Ann Lowry, the brothers were found in Chocowinity for their formal Sweetheart Ball in February.

The annual beer drinking contest proved to be a real "bust" spring quarter as Theta Chi consumed more beer in less time than any other fraternity. In April, Sig Eps headed south for Myrtle Beach for beach week-end.

"Who's up for a road trip?" A frequently heard expression around the Sigma house. Such trips were not uncommon as the sisters travelled to Chapel Hill to help organize a new chapter at UNC. In October, a Halloween "Haunted House" party co-hosted with the Pi Kaps. More money for the Heart Fund. Homecoming: a great view from the Sigma's front yard. For alumnae and parents, brunch before the Homecoming game.

Sigma beauties reigned through the year as IFC Queen, Apple Blossom Princess, Miss Venus of Derby

Day, and Pi Kappa Phi Rose Queen.

Cake fights resulting from a surplus of birthday cakes, invasions by the Pikas and Theta Chis, and a "Miss Winterville" pageant in the attic. Sigmas were really surprised when the Sig Eps tried to paint their house red. Periodic battles with fraternities provided only a portion of the year's activities. In spring, pool parties at the chapter advisor's home and trips to the beach. Getting their "ducks in a row," Sigma sold candy to support their national philanthropy, the children's ward in Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

Pledges, pledges, and more pledges. Serenades, raids and socials. Fall Quarter: a brother-pledge football game resulting in torn ligaments and sore muscles. Of course, the brothers won the game. For Homecoming, a champagne breakfast and a steak dinner for alumni. Stag parties for new brothers and a new house on Tenth Street for everyone. Helping the community, TKEs collected money for the March of Dimes campaign and for the Heart Fund bringing in more money than any other fraternity for the second year in a row.
Working for the Fraternity, pledges sold doughnuts and raffled a color television with a profit of $360 going to the brotherhood. Winter quarter meant Red Carnation Ball and trips to the beach; a formal dance and a new fraternity sweetheart, Cindy Casey. On off days, the brothers always managed to stir up some excitement with plenty of beer and kidnapped sorority sisters. Sororities retaliated when the brothers were auctioned off as slaves for a day. Much of the TKE's time was spent remodeling the basement. To the tune of $5,000. When completed, the basement provided a perfect place for pinball and "grub parties." Usually ended up in beer-throwing fights. "Gay Nineties" weekend: an old-fashioned picnic, a raft race on the Tar River, and a beer blast. Honoring graduating brothers, a Seniors' Banquet was held at the Holiday Inn spring quarter. Final activities for the year: Parents' Day in March and beach weekend at Nag's Head.

sweatshirts. Beach weekend in the spring at Nag's Head: drunken "orgies," bonfires on the beach and sand between the sheets. Followed by the Greek Week fiasco. The Theta Chi brawl proved as entertaining as Archie Bell would have been. In fall, a Halloween party complete with a sixty-five pound "decorated" pumpkin which was later disposed of by the Greenville police force.

To insure a change of pace, a Christmas party for underprivileged children. Santa Claus even came to this one. With a sojourn to Greenville for a New Year's Eve party, Theta Chi started the new year off with spirits soaring (or crashing!!). Changing from G.Y.C.O.A.F. sweatshirts to more formal attire, the brothers crowned Becky Lackey as Dream Girl of 1970.

Athletically, Theta Chi captured first place in fraternity intramurals. Richard Keir and Jim Modlin added trophies to the brotherhood as "Outstanding Athletes of the Year" for two consecutive years.

Lazy afternoons around the house. Pinball machines, water fights, memorized jukebox numbers. Ending another year with sleazy women, beer, Bali Hai, and boat races on the Tar.

charter members. Newest campus service fraternity. Founded January 26, 1970, Beta chapter of Sigma Tau Sigma provided services both on and off campus. Members represented National Merit Scholars, SGA legislators, ex-servicemen, and Eagle scouts. Devoting much time and interest to the Greenville Boys' Club, the brothers painted the entire clubhouse and acted as tutors and recreational referees to the boys. In turn, the Boys' Club allowed the fraternity to meet each week in the clubhouse. Working on campus, Sigma Tau Sigma brothers maintained an attractive appearance for Wright fountain. Providing continuous service during the year, they delivered the Fountain-head to campus departmental offices. In March, the fraternity manned information booths for tourists arriving to view the solar eclipse.

Maintaining a "B" scholastic average, the brothers claimed one of the highest averages of campus fraternities. In spring, the first rush period and beach weekend.

"Lay of the land" came under the careful scrutiny of Gamma Theta Upsilon, honorary geography fraternity. World-wide travelers as guest speakers. Professors such as Dr. Edward Leahy, who visited Brazil, and Dr. Daniel Stillman, who sailed to Bermuda. First hand reports of geographic differences of different regions around the world. Slides set a realistic atmosphere.

Fun as well as study. The Cliffs of the Neuse River set the scene for a steak cook-out in April. Giving the members an opportunity to develop their areas of interest, Gamma Theta Upsilon stimulated professional concern in the field of geography.

Players converge on the ball with sticks poised to strike.

First year of Women's Intercollegiate Athletics at ECU. Beginning with field hockey in the fall, the team finished with fine display at Meredith Sports Day. Mrs. Catherine Bolton, coach, cited Magoo Trausou as leading scorer, Deb Harlan for outstanding courage and Eloise Butler for outstanding defense.

Jordy McGowan blocks a shot by Magoo Trausou with help from Janet Cox.

Margaret Villafranca and Sandy Hart ready for action.

Basketball

was highlight of the year for the Women's Intercollegiate group. Cheryl Thompson was the leading scorer with Peggy Taylor close behind. Betty Upton and Judy (the Star) Waits were outstanding rebounders. Margaret Transou and Lorraine Rollins completed the team.

Trying

season. Frustration for the 1969 Baseball Team. Pirates had a respectable .245 team batting average. Team ERA was better than one run per game lower than the opposition, 2.63 to 3.73. Still, record dropped to 15-14. Pirates were 7-7 in SC play. Outscored opponents by 39 runs. Outhit them by 20 points. Outhit, outpitched, and had better defensive average. They still lost. Couldn't get the big hit when they needed it.

Firstbaseman Wayne Vick leans into a pitch.

Longest

winning streak was four games. Two at three games apiece. Lost last four games for longest losing streak. Also a three game streak. Started the season by losing four of five games. Then won four in a row to get above .500. Stayed there. Defeated Davidson three times. Beat Dartmouth and Cornell twice. Split with The Citadel in four games. Lost twice to both N.C. State and Furman. Played in six games that went into extra innings. Won only two of the six. Last three games of the year went into extra innings. Lost all three.

Co-captain

Carey Anderson led the team in hitting. Batted .333, hit four home runs, and drove in 22 runs.

Diminutive Len Dowd was next at .321. A pesky hitter, Dick Corrada had his best season at .287 and drove in eight runs. Skip Taylor at .279 and 11 RBI's and Ken Graver at .268 and 13 RBI's were next in line.

Skip Taylor stretches for the throw.

Wayne Vick plays the corner of the bag as he holds the runner close.

Fireballing

righthander Ron Hastings was the Pirates' top hurler with a 4-2 mark and a sparkling 1.22 ERA. All four wins were shutouts. Knocked off The Citadel, Dartmouth, and Davidson twice. Lost by one run to Carolina and was shut out 1-0 by The Citadel. Randy Glover finished 3-1, mostly in relief. Had a good 2.63 ERA. Sonny Robinson was 3-2 with a 1.98 ERA. Started and relieved. Freshman Tim Bayless was 1-0 with a 0.81 ERA in 11 innings.

Defensively,

Stu Garrett was the best center-fielder in the SC. Batted .240. Hit three home runs, all in one game. Dick Corrada played well at short. Wayne Vick played errorless ball at first. Skip Taylor caught and played first and made only two errors all season. Overall team defensive average was .949.

Coach Smith watches the action on the field from his favorite seat in the dugout.

Tennis

team suffered through a disappointing season. Final mark of 6-8. Slumped at the end of the season. Moved out to 4-2 before losing six of the last eight matches. Best streak was four wins in a row. Defeated Richmond, the University of Cincinnati, Campbell College, and Atlantic Christian College. Singles matches were played by Graham Felton, Bill Ransone, Bobby Vick, Bill Van Middlesworth, Mike Grady, and Bruce Linton. Doubles teams were Felton-Ransone, Vick-Linton, and Grady-David Guilford. The Most Valuable Player was Bobby Vick.

Neill Ross, Ken Voss, Joe Day, and David Thomas work out on the track.

Quarter-miler Paige Davis.

Advancing

from fifth to second in the SC indoor meet, the Track Team continued to improve its record. Ken Voss placed in the mile and two mile runs. Paige Davis set a new conference record in the quarter mile. Paige Davis finished second in the 220 and quarter mile and anchored the second place 440 relay team. In dual competition, the Pirates' record slipped to 3-5. Injuries were a main cause.

Lanny Davis passes the baton to Jimmy Kidd.

Participated

in the Florida Relays. Good team effort. Fine showing. Distance medley team of Lanny Davis, Paige Davis, Jim Kidd, and Ken Voss placed fourth. Beat out Tennessee, NYU, Ohio State, Duke and Carolina. Advanced from ninth to fifth in the state meet. Jim Kidd won the half mile in record setting time.

S. C. Champions.

Topping off a fine year, the Golf Team boasted a 9-3 record. Defeated Old Dominion twice. V.M.I., South Carolina, ACC, Campbell and Wilmington also lost. So did Southern Connecticut State and Siena College. Went to the tournament as a favored team and ended Davidson's three year reign as champs.

Mike Schlueter led the team. Finished second for the individual title by one stroke. Team total of 764. Furman second at 771. ECU's first title in five years as SC member. Jack Williams, Vernon Tyson, Marshall Utterson, Joe Tyson, Ray Sharpe, and Phil Wallace led the team.

Prospects

for 1970 were good. Graduation hurt. Gone were Mike Schlueter, the Pirates' best golfer, Marshall Utterson, and Jack Williams. Five returners and two outstanding freshmen were available. Vernon and Joe Tyson, Ray Sharpe, Vance Whicker, and Phil Wallace returned; and frosh Rocky Rockett and Rick Oates were impressive. Duke and N. C. State appeared on this year's schedule. Also SC schools and some independents. Northern schools traveling South. Three tournaments dotted the schedule. Southern Conference Tournament at the Country Club of North Carolina at Pinehurst. Red Fox at Tryon, N. C. Furman Invitational at Greenville, S. C.

Vail regatta topped a great year for the crew team. Buc varsity finished sixth in a field of 32 schools. Wound up 8-3 in dual competition. Came in third in the S.I.R.A. Second place in the Grimaldi Cup. Dual meet victories were over Tampa, Alabama, Jacksonville (twice), The Citadel (twice), V.C.U., and Howard. Lost to Florida Southern, Rollins College, and Virginia.

Future of crew looked bright. Warehouse fire in June destroyed all equipment. Total loss. Had to rebuild. Student body voted more activity money to crew. Donations aided. New equipment ordered. Equipment was borrowed 'til new shells and blades arrived.

Tentative races set up against Notre Dame, The Citadel, Jacksonville, Alabama, Rollins, Virginia, V.C.U., Marietta, Florida Southern, Tampa, Howard, and regattas in Florida, Charleston, S. C., Dad Vail in Philadelphia, and the Grimaldi in New York.

Lacrosse

a relatively new sport at EC. Coach Bill Dickens' charges finished with a 3-5 mark. Wins were over George Washington, Virginia Tech, and William and Mary. The Bucs' loss column showed defeats by powerhouses such as the University of Pennsylvania, Oberlin College, and Duke.

Kirk Voorhees, Randy Anderson, Gary McCullough, and Leroy Nichols led the Pirate effort all season. Voorhees was named the best offensive player. Remained a mainstay for three years. Defensive trophy went to Anderson.

Coach John Lovestedt took over this year. Several good players returned. Randy Anderson, defenseman. Richard Cassisi, attackman. Jim Frank, goalie. David Lord, attackman. Leroy Nichols, defenseman.

This year's schedule included some Southern Conference teams such as George Washington and William and Mary. Area independents and some ACC schools appeared. Some northern independents traveled South to play the Pirates.

Disappointing

was all one could say about the 1969 football season. The 2-7 mark was way off expectations. Most expected 7-2. A possible SC champ and Tangerine Bowl bid. Some thought of 9-0. Inconsistency was the biggest problem. Buc offense ground out 280 yards in total offense per game. Defense allowed 316. Opponents outscored ECU by 204 to 108. Only 15 TD's all season.

Defense held except for a slump at end of season. Allowed on average, three TD's a game. Good record for era of high powered offenses. Bucs rushed for 1775 yards on 506 carries and 12 TD's. Passed for 745 yards and three TD's on 69 of 160 for 43 per cent. Nine opponents carried 376 times for 1200 yards and nine TD's. Outpassed Pirates easily. 1644 yards and 18 TD's on 119 of 217 attempts for 55 per cent. It was easier to go by air against the Pirates.

"You did it! I just called it!"

Billy Wightman grimaces under the weight of a host of Davidson tacklers.

Coach Stasavich holds a sideline conference with blocking back Tim Ilderton.

Individually,

three were head and shoulders above the rest. Billy Wightman, SC's number two rusher with 835 yards. 1003 yards in total offense. All-Southern Conference. Scored seven TD's this season. One SC mark with 245 yard rushing effort against Davidson.

Butch Colson, Buc's record setting fullback. 747 yards rushing senior year. 1003 yards in total offense. Closed out brilliant career holding seven school records, two season marks, two single game marks, three career records, and two Southern Conference marks. Records included 1135 yards rushing in one season and 2512 career yards. 41 carries in one game and 253 season carries. 92 points scored in one season. Won SC Player of the Year Award and All-Southern Conference laurels as a sophomore. Hard to replace.

George Wheeler, defensive tackle, anchored Pirate front line. Opponents ran away from his side. Finally got due acknowledgement. Named to All-Southern Conference defensive unit.

As a unit, Pirate defensive secondary swiped 14 aeri-als. Three players each picked off three. Stu Garrett, Mike Boaz, Mike Mills. Rusty Scales snatched two enemy passes.

Pirates

against East Tennessee in Johnson City, Tennessee. Each thwarted offensively. Defensive struggle for three quarters. ETSU got a break and moved in for the TD. Five minutes left. ECU started to drive. Buccaneers stopped it. Pirates got final drive underway. Fizzled out. Third Pirate shutout in eight years.

Home opener was before 13,500. Louisiana Tech came in with possibly best QB in country in Terry Bradshaw. "Terrific Terry" showed ECU fans why he was so highly touted. Fired passes all over Ficklen Stadium. Pirate defensive secondary hard pressed. Played a good game. Pirates finally scored their first TD of the year. Missed the PAT. Tech took a 24-6 win.

Touchdown! A sign the Bucs saw only 15 times all year.

Tailback Jack Patterson prepares to fire a pass.

Gordon Slade, Davidson's top quarterback.

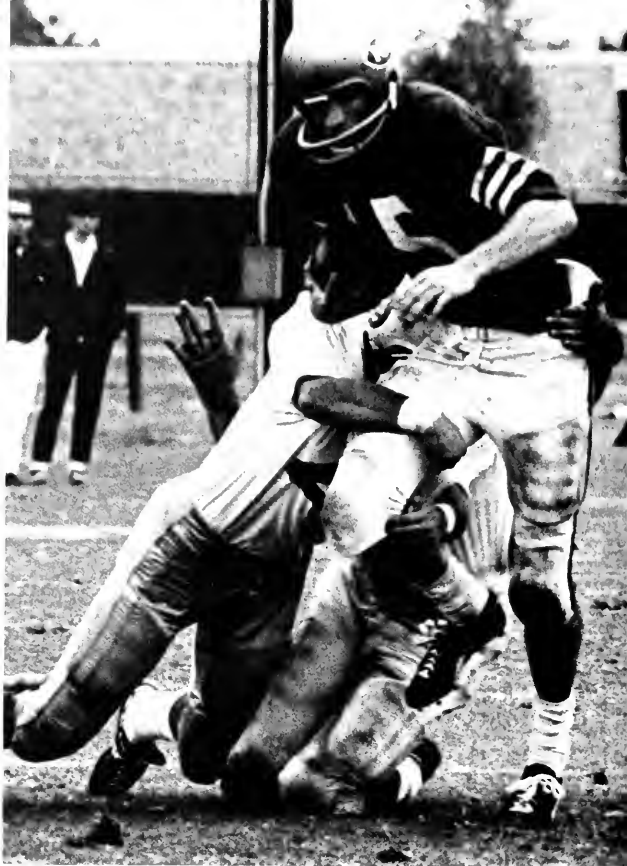

Colson and Wightman, ECU's dynamic duo on the gridiron.

The Citadel

with triple option offense invaded Pirates' den. Teams started slow. Bulldogs' QB Passander went to work on Buc defenses. 'Dogs took and held the lead. ECU began to move offensively. Getting across the goal line still a problem. Scored only two TD's. Again missed one conversion. Passander ran the Bulldogs' version of the triple option, called the "Veer" to perfection. The Citadel waltzed to a convincing 31-13 win.

With a four game losing streak, the Bucs invaded Richmond City Stadium to battle the SC's defending champion Richmond Spiders. EC was a decided underdog. Spiders led by QB Charlie Richards and All-America candidate Walker Gillette. Pirates contained by Richmond's league leading defensive unit. ECU put seven points on the board. Spiders scored 24.

Salukis of Southern Illinois were the first team the Bucs faced that was not a passing team. Both squads set to grind it out on the ground. Southern Illinois was heavily favored. Pirates scored first and ground it out. Led 10-3 going into last moments. Salukis' drives halted by interceptions and returns by Rusty Scales and Mike Mills. EC scored an insurance TD to ensure an upset 17-3 victory.

Stubborn

Furman refused to quit. Bucs moved well for the second game in a row even though in the rain and mud. Buc defense held the Paladins in check. Pirates moved the ball. Offense clicked for 24 points. Paladins scored twice on kickoff returns and followed an EC fumble deep in Pirate territory for 21 points. EC now with two game winning streak. Homecoming game with Davidson next.

Wildcats came to Greenville with best offense in SC. Best short passing game in the country. QB Gordon Slade, All-American candidate, ran the show. Excellent passer. Pirates fired up. Defense primed for Slade. Held in first half. Offense controlled the tempo with vicious ground attack that let EC hold the ball. Billy Wightman ran around and over the Wildcats. Pirates forged a 27-7 halftime lead.

Mistakes in second half and defensive lapses allowed the Wildcats to take a 42-27 victory.

Demoralized

after their loss to Davidson, the Bucs traveled to Huntington, West Virginia, to play Marshall in a snowstorm. No contest, Marshall scored in its second play from scrimmage and routed the Bucs, rolling up a 38-7 score. Only two drives. One TD. No motivation. Team flat.

Southerners clobbered Pirates by 65-0 last year. No offense or defense by EC. Bucs sought revenge. Tight defensive struggle for most of the game. USM scored first to take a 7-0 lead. EC scored to tie the game. Southerners scored again. USM receiver outreached Buc defender for the ball. Winning TD. Final score 14-7. Pirates ended up on the short end of the stick.

Coach

Stasavich resigned as head football coach at the end of football season. Assumed full duties as Athletic Director. Searched for replacement. Michael Burnette McGee was named new coach. Former Duke All-American. All-ACC in 1958-59. 1959 team captain. 1959—Outland Award—National Lineman of the Year. 1959—Time and Look All-American. 1959-60—McKelvin Award—ACC Athlete of the Year. Outstanding recruiter. First head coaching job. One of the youngest head football coaches in the country.

Baby

Bucs wound up their season with a four game winning streak and a 4-1 mark. Outstanding freshman had to be Mark Hamilton. Rushed 93 times for 678 yards and six TD's. Averaged 7.3 yards per carry. Had one game effort of 306 yards and two TD's against the Richmond frosh. Broke Neil Hughes frosh rushing mark of 600 yards.

Another good runner was Leslie Strayhorn. Ripped for 405 yards on 78 carries from fullback position. Scored three TD's. Averaged 5.2 yards per carry.

Bert Showlerty, another fullback, rushed 61 times for 190 yards and three TD's. 3.1 yards per carry.

Defensively, Ron Konrady was outstanding. Intercepted four passes. Dick Paddock picked off two. Ron Douthit, Gary Hamilton, Terry Johnson, and Bill Croisetiere were best defensive linemen. Jim Creech and Bebo Batts, top offensive linemen.

Wolflets and Baby Bucs met for the second time. EC won first encounter by 17-7. N.C. State turned the tables in a tough defensive struggle. Wolflets took a 10-7 lead into the final moments before scoring an insurance TD for a 17-7 victory. Terry Kelly and Jim Creech were named the offensive back and lineman of the week for their play. Richmond provided the showcase for the Baby Bucs to display their rushing prowess. Led by Tailback Mark Hamilton, EC rolled up almost 500 yards in rushing as they crushed the Spider frosh by 42-21. Hamilton was the game's top rusher with 306 yards. Scored two TD's. Named offensive back of the week.

Comeback win. The Bullpups from The Citadel came close to winning, but a field goal by specialist Billy Daniels was the difference as EC won 23-20. Baby Bucs overcame the Bullpups' lead with a ten-point fourth quarter to wind up with a 4-1 mark for the season. Leslie Strayhorn and Chris Gallahan were named offensive back and lineman of the week. Ron Konrady, for the second time, was named defensive back of the week. Defensive lineman of the week was Bill Croisetierre.

Composed

of almost all sophomores and freshmen, the cross country team was led by senior captain Ken Voss. Overall record of 4-5 was disappointing. First losing record in years. Slipped to third in the state meet. Neill Ross came in second at the meet and was named to the All-Conference team. Freshman Dennis Smith also placed high. In the Southern Conference meet, the Pirates finished fourth.

Bill Snyder and Lee Mayhew each scored two goals. Cuthbert had five assists. Eric Schandelmeier and Bill Valentine were outstanding halfbacks. Gray Norris and Mike Parker were outstanding fullbacks. "Fairley well" is what East Carolina's Pirates did for the 1969-70 basketball season. Seniors Tom Miller and Jim Modlin had their best seasons ever. Both averaged better than 18 points a game. Jim Fairley was not far behind at almost 17 points. Jim Gregory next at 16.5 a game.

Playing a tough schedule, the Pirates wound up at 16-9. Lost to South Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest, Davidson, N.C. State, East Tennessee, and Jacksonville. Five of these teams were ranked in the Top Twenty at one time or another. Four were in the Top Ten.

Jim Modlin

became the first Pirate to score over 1,000 points in a three-year career. Went over 1,000 against East Tennessee. Tom Miller followed six games later against The Citadel. Modlin set a new individual scoring mark with his 42-point effort against Western Carolina. Miller scored his varsity high with a 32-point game against State. Followed a 29-point game against Davidson. Was named SC Player of the Week for his efforts.

Pirate Power

was rebounding. Claimed 55.9% of the rebounds during the season. Jim Modlin improved his board work and went from six rebounds a game to 10.5 a game. Jim Gregory was still a steady and strong rebounder, and had his own career marks at graduation. Jim Fairley erased Gregory's single season mark of 11.2 by hauling down an average of 12.2 rebounds a game.

Pirate Power also showed in the team's shooting. Hit 47% from the floor. Miller hit on 44%, mostly from the outside. Modlin, Gregory, and Fairley worked in closer hitting 46%, 49% and 52% respectively. Free throw shooting was below the expected. No player shot 70%. Team shot 65%.

Reserves

played an important role in the Pirates' success. Had more depth. Julius Prince wound up as a starter by season's end. An anxious crowd always perked up when he came in. Lyn Green, recruited out of the intramural program, proved a valuable swing man. Hit over 50% of his shots from the floor. Mike Henrich saw action behind Miller and Prince. Ron LePors spelled Modlin at center. Hit almost 55% of his shots.

Frosh played

"three" seasons. In the first one, the Baby Bucs lost their first three games and five of six. In the second season, they worked more cohesively as the frosh split six games. In the final season, the Baby Bucs jelled and won five of the six games to finish their season with a 9-9 log. The final stretch run saw the frosh down William and Mary twice, and Richmond, Frederick Military Academy, and Old Dominion once each, and lose only to the Duke Frosh. Averaged 92 points a game during the last six and 84 points a game overall.

Other starters in double figures were guards Ernie Pope at 11.9 and Dave McNeil at 11.8 points per game. Forward Steve McKenzie scored 10.9 points per game and 6.3 rebounds.

One that got away. Baby Bucs fall back on defense.

Records

tied or broken. The frosh broke the old frosh record for free throws made and attempted in one season. Dave Franklin tied the record for most rebounds (25) in one game and Roland Leggett tied the record for most assists (11) in one game.

Aquabucs

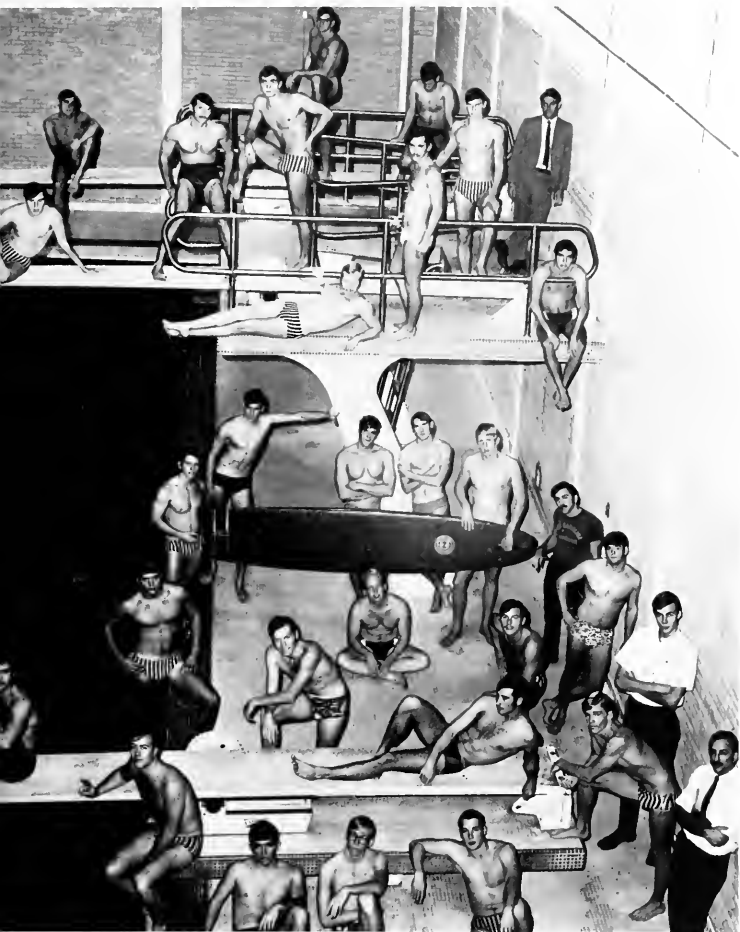

swam against some of the top teams in the country. Compiled a respectable 7-6 mark. Lost to such powers as Army, Florida State, Carolina, Maryland, N.C. State, and Villanova. Defeated V.M.I., V.P.I., Old Dominion, South Carolina, LSU, Florida Southern, and Catholic University. Team was led all year by Jim Griffin. Top point getter. Freestyler. Other outstanding swimmers were Gary Frederick in the distance freestyles, Steve Weissman in the breaststroke, Larry Allman in the breaststroke, Ken Hungate in the backstroke and individual medley, and in diving Doug Emerson and Bob Baird. Newcomers adding lustre to the squad were led by freshmen Paul Trevisan in the freestyle events and Wayne Norris in the breaststroke.

Highlight of the dual meet season was a come-from-behind victory over SC champ William and Mary. Wrestlers competed in the N. C. Collegiate Wrestling Tournament. ACADEMICS

ACADEMICS

Dr. Jenkins converses informally with a student.

The President accompanies Susan Walton, the Homecoming Queen.

Tuesday,

January 27, 1970, Dr. Leo Jenkins celebrated the tenth anniversary of his presidency. During these ten years, ECU had become the fastest growing institution in North Carolina. The curriculum expanded to include 53 academic departments, the faculty and student bodies experienced increasing numbers and higher quality, and the campus broadened, becoming no longer a "pedestrian campus." New buildings replaced the sentimental landmarks of ECTC, and East Carolina College had become a University. As Dr. Jenkins began his eleventh year as president, he declared "Change at ECU will be as characteristic of the 1970's as it was of the 1960's."

During the year, Dr. Jenkins initiated a program designed to open new channels of communication between the community colleges and the university community by enabling these colleges to send their promising students directly into a university system. Plans were made to institute the state's first educational program in police administration and corrections. While architectural drawings were submitted for School of Allied Health Professions' Bldg., Governor Scott expressed support of an ECU medical school.

Never allowing his plans for the future of the school to interfere with his deep concern for the welfare of the students, Dr. Jenkins greeted everyone he encountered with a wave, a smile and a cheerful "hello."

Dr. Jenkins reflects tension of the South Carolina ballgame.

Authorization of a loan for a new student union by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees. Attorney General Robert Morgan chaired the committee which included three other members: Mr. Reginald McCoy, Vice-President; Mr. Troy Dodson and Mr. James Whitfield. Acting in absence of the entire Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee approved new employees, future budgets, campus construction, the purchase of land, and new faculty members.

Appointed by the Governor and approved by the Senate of North Carolina Legislature, members served for a tenure of eight years.

As the chief administrative official, Dr. Jenkins was responsible to the Board of Trustees. The Board of Trustees was empowered to consider any phase of the University's operation, but usually Dr. Jenkins asked the Board to investigate particular matters. One of the main considerations of the Board in the past year was the increase in student fees and tuition.

Unknown and nameless to most of the students, they were susceptible to the warranted (or unwarranted) blame of the dissenters. Black protest, here as elsewhere. The administration answered student demands with restraint and moderation. The blacks cried, "Don't sidestep!" Both restraint and moderation were essential with the existence of moratoriums, a Rally for America, and the "silent majority." Like everyone else, the "establishment" suffered from the university's "growing pains" as it spent another year in the cramped, remodeled offices of Whichard Building, the former home of both the music department and the former ECTC library.

Departments

A new Dean.

Officially becoming Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in September, Dr. Richard Capwell acted as co-ordinator of the largest college on campus. The College of Arts and Sciences is composed of nineteen departments with an emphasis on individual departments. Operating independently, the Department of Aerospace Studies is technically under the College of Arts and Sciences.

When asked if there were any particular problems with the operation of the college, Dean Richard Capwell said that the college had "run smoothly. Deserving much of the credit is the former Dean Dr. John Howell, now Dean of the Graduate School."

Only one of the results of a Special Education committee appointed by Vice-President Robert Holt to review the general education requirements and to recommend any changes needed in General College. Conditions: No department would be allowed to add additional hours to the current total hours required for a minor or major. Departments would recommend particular supportive requirements for its degrees. There had to be sufficient electives to allow the student to have a selection. Commenting on the situation, Dr. Donald E. Bailey, Dean, stated, "The General College work load will be reduced from six to seven quarters to four or five quarters, but the net effect of the proposal is to make very little change in the present requirements."

During

the past decade we changed to university status. This change was natural and it implied response. The student was looking for this. He voiced his dissatisfaction with the sacred, the static, and the "establishment."

The student of the next decade will want more voice in the society in which he lives and studies. He will be better qualified and more enlightened than his predecessors and as a result will seek higher quality. He will expect dynamic, creative instructors who stay abreast in their disciplines and practice the concepts and techniques they teach in their own classroom. He will press for smaller classes and individualized instruction to stimulate discussion and encourage maximum participation so that he can be a part of the activities shaping his future.

ECU of the future will be dynamic and continue to serve the needs of the area and the student.

Students at

East Carolina were, and are still, slow to respond to the basic question of man's role and responsibility in shaping his environment. Nearly coincidental with acquisition of university status came greater on-campus activity by vocal minority groups, a major change in the scope of campus communications, and more interest in political issues.

Perhaps the current trend of student social awareness will continue into the 70's and ECU will provide the leadership so desperately needed in the east.

I arrived

on the ECU campus eight years ago. I had not been back to a college since my graduation. After the initial shock of realizing that I no longer looked like a college student, I was further and more deeply startled by a prevailing remark that still rings in my ears: "I have no intention of teaching, but I want to get a degree in teaching so that I'll have something to fall back on." This was the educational goal of seemingly every student I encountered. I now meet a few more students who are not approaching life preparing to fall back and have more individuality, a little less conformity in dress and attitude, and a little more aggressiveness.

Eight years ago I seriously doubt if there were enough students who cared enough about anything to demonstrate or protest or write a letter to the "campus house organ." Today, there are promises of a newspaper; there is a student voice that sometimes, even if in small factions, rises above a conventional whisper; and there are some very dedicated, positive students.

Is there more to come? I think so. This is the dawning of the age of Aquarius, a time in which peace is labeled a five-letter dirty word by some people. It also seems wiser to go with Aquarius than to "go along," like the mighty waters of the Tar River. It is already 1970. Soon it could be 1984.

The Department

of Geography continued to grow in the number of staff members, course offerings, and the number of majors during the past year. The program in city and regional planning, open to all A.B. students, received the greatest growth during the year. Approximately forty-five students elected the program, and they found excellent positions in planning agencies throughout the state. The B.S. program was expanded, and the Department supervised about eight students each quarter in the schools of North Carolina.

The graduate program widened the span of its master's program. A Ph.D. degree in geography was anticipated, and work was underway to implement this degree in the future. Most of these dissertations involved research and study of North Carolina.

Maintaining an extensive collection of wall maps, aerial photographs, and audio-visual materials, the Department served as map depository for Army Map Service and U.S. Geological Survey.

Size alone

does not reflect the excellence of a university, but it can be used as an indicator of its potential. Buildings and equipment are, of course, essential to the development of a leading institution; but ultimately, the measure of success rests with the students and faculty—their competence, their desire, and their determination. It seems to me that at ECU, both student and faculty alike are now experiencing and accepting the challenge of realizing this potential.

Educational opportunities available to the ECU student today far exceed those of the student only a few years ago. Established and newly developed programs are rapidly expanding into exciting fields where interdisciplinary study and non-traditional teaching are becoming commonplace. The important point is that a definite commitment has been made; ECU has entered competition. The outcome? Difficult to predict; but for the student body and faculty of the 70's, the decision is theirs.

During the past few years, East Carolina's students, reflecting a trend throughout the nation, became deeply concerned with the struggle of minority groups and sincerely supported many of their demands. When change came slowly, some of our students, as their colleagues elsewhere, blamed "the establishment" and actively opposed prevailing social and political concepts.

Some protests were not popular with the majority of our students; but one proposal which seemed to have a good following and, incidentally, a number of silent sympathizers, was the current antiwar movement. Their elders sympathized with these orderly anti-war protests. They were saddened, however, when it became apparent that even the national political figures had no constructive program with which to lead this generation toward lasting peace.

Soon, our students will be "the establishment," and their successors will revolt against their order. Meanwhile, newer and more horrendous weapons of destruction will replace the atom and hydrogen bombs, and the possibility of homicide will hang even more threateningly over mankind. Will "the establishment" then be ready to offer the guidance needed? Will East Carolina students then imitate Berkeley, Chicago and Harvard, or will they be prepared to assume leadership by asserting and implementing constructive alternatives to war?

As for the coming decade, I believe despite the optimistic predictions, that science technology, governments, and schools will fall short of solving humanity's problems unless we swing back to the belief in a Supreme Being. HOME OF THE SOUTHERN CONFERENCE
SWIMMING AND DIVING CHAMPIONS
1966-67-68-69

In the late

1960's, the tremendous growth rate of East Carolina reached a plateau. It is my opinion that the University will experience another rapid period of growth in student body and facilities in the coming years of the new decade. As the graduate program matures, as the medical school becomes a reality, and as various new disciplines and departments become a part of the university, the student body will tend to grow more cosmopolitan in character and more serious and dedicated in purpose. In the 1970's our institution will take on increasingly the characteristics of a large and diversified university.

The inevitable changes which these developments will bring in the relationship of the administration to the student body and the faculty to the student body will not come without some tensions and problems. The straightforward way in which our student body met the crises of the 1960's leads me to believe that students will be able to cope fully with the new problems of the 1970's. The strength of our faculty, the expanding physical facilities, and the maturing of our academic programs lead me to see for ECU not a decade of transition in the '70's as was experienced in the '60's but a decade of maturing and fulfillment of the preliminary work that was done in the 1960's. By 1980, East Carolina should have fully succeeded to its rightful place as a major educational institution in North Carolina and in the South.

Two-way

communication on the university campus has finally come of age. For many years in higher education, communication was limited to dull lectures by professors with rare responses by students. These responses were usually in the form of regurgitation on examinations. East Carolina students in the '70's will have the opportunity to submit their feeling, attitudes, and ideas with the hope that they will help in the solution of scholarly as well as practical problems. ECU will provide for students the experiences to which they can relate in the future for possible solutions to problems. Student intellectual freedom will be considered as sacred as academic freedom for professors.

In this multi-media climate, students and professors will be able to transcend their physical limitations and extend the sum total of their accumulated knowledge through relatively new techniques of visual and graphic communication. Naturally, I personally feel that a library or media center of some sort is the logical place for the storage of these ideas whether in print or nonprint format. This faculty-student-medium exchange of ideas should result in the development of students who are properly prepared both intellectually and professionally to make significant contributions to society in the 70's.

Retrieval of information will be the key to study for the East Carolina student. Dynamic means of communication are ephemeral without their static counterparts to preserve them. The East Carolina student of the 70's, I feel, will have these at his disposal.

Changes in the East Carolina student body in the last few years have come concurrently with the achievement of university status, but not necessarily because of it. This deduction is the consensus of an informal poll taken of the Mathematics faculty.

One direct result of the achievement of university status is the increase in the number of graduate students in the Mathematics Department. Each year these students are a bit better prepared than those of the year before. This trend should continue as the department completes preparation for offering the PhD degree.

The undergraduate students are also better prepared. Another encouraging change is the increase in the number of men who are entering mathematics education.

The prediction for ECU students of the 70's is that they will continue to be serious about their work. Those majoring in mathematics will be preparing to enter the fields of theoretical mathematics, applied mathematics, statistics, computer science, education, and related areas.

The East

Carolina University student coming onto the campus and into the classroom carries with him all the experiences of the most formative years of his life. He cannot cut himself off from the past. As he enters the University, he must make a decision: either to examine and evaluate those experiences or to avoid such an examination and continue his life much as it was before, except that now it sports a new accumulation of factual knowledge.

Many students now, as in the past, hope for life as they have known it. Others want to evaluate with emotions before reason, slogans before articulate speech, and certitude before questioning. Students in another group examine and evaluate thoughtfully, honestly. They respect the past while not being ruled by it.

We seek to help this latter group grow and develop. Will it do so in the future? It must. Without such a group, no University can ever be true to its name.

Dr. Stokes suggests changes in a student's outline for term paper.

I cannot deny that student attitudes have changed over the three years since East Carolina attained university status; I am not at all certain, however, that the change of status produced the altered attitudes. I have the impression that the average student in 1970 is better qualified than former students to benefit from the intellectual disciplines offered in the various schools and departments. I believe that the student who reaches the standing of junior or senior today is better prepared to engage in research and writing and to judge issues more critically than his counterpart of several years ago. These attitudes will strongly support the efforts of the University to create stronger undergraduate and advanced graduate programs of study. The faculty and administrators of the University will be encouraged to develop more challenging curricula and to institute more imaginative and effective teaching techniques. Students will be increasingly involved in this process.

I regret to say that I find numbers of students who seem less inclined than those of 1966 to accept as benefits the efforts of the University to transmit a heritage of human culture. Many of our students wish to live in the existential present and show a marked disdain for human experience in the past tense. They seem distrustful of scholars, teachers, and administrators, who claim the authority to supply guidance for their intellectual growth. I doubt that a gifted minority of our students in 1970 possess the motivation to excel in the mastery of skills, insights, and understanding which could have made them molders of a future cultural heritage and constructive critics of the University.

expect any cataclysmic change in student behavior in the next few years at East Carolina. I do believe that the movement toward more student participation will continue. We will see more student research and more student autonomy in general involving both academic matters as well as extramural activities. Specifically, the students will gradually change so that they will expect to encounter more firsthand sources of data.

I suspect we shall encounter some new movement that will enlist the sympathy of the student body and that they will dress and act in a manner appropriate to this newly ritualized behavior. Every generation has to find something to protest about and to get involved in. The flag wavers of today, as well as the hippy exponents, will be classified as members of the by-gone generation by the students in the seventies.

I do not mean to communicate a feeling that the seventies will be a mundane existence. I think the University will certainly become more cosmopolitan and more tolerant and that the students will act responsibly in a much greater area.

of the 70's will have to be the most exciting thus far in the history of this institution. ECU will properly take its place as one of the major universities in the Southeast. We now stand at the threshold of tremendous opportunities in student programs, graduate education, pedagogical advances, and research. The mandate and authority that have come to us through university status will permit a greater influence and a greater involvement with the needs of our society.

We are living in an era in which the sociological, economic, and technological problems have been dramatized and brought sharply into focus. The university community of faculty and students has a compelling responsibility and opportunity to dedicate itself to constructive activities that will contribute to the solution of these problems.

The students at ECU will be part of this enterprise whose productivity will be contributory to improving the lot of all people.

ten thousand, ECU, the micro world like its neighbor the Tar, flows on an ever filling flood of ideas and materials.

In the past decade, SCIE has survived the pressures of a changing emphasis and developed to the point of adopting innovative experimentation.

The leader in the reform of general education here at ECU is at home base in SCIE. This leadership reflects the awareness of the staff that a scientific education is not of itself sufficient to fulfill the needs and aspirations of the young citizens who cast their lot with this department. The promotion of American democracy and achieving and sustaining peace are areas of aggressive thought and action in SCIE.

Versatility in abilities, deep insights into the abysmal confusion of the present age, and broad knowledge of history, philosophy, social science, language, and literature are areas of emphasis and honor for the major in SCIE at ECU.

Internal dynamics

and the external pressures and support that combined to give East Carolina College university status will continue to modify its structure and functions throughout the 1970's. This developmental process is already giving our institution a new spirit, reflected in a new sense of responsibility among faculty and students alike.

The more obvious changes during the 1970's will include (1) growing enrollments from a broader population base, including more "high risk" students in both the undergraduate and graduate programs, (2) increased expenditures per capita, embodying the installation of modern equipment and facilities necessary for the operation of the "great university" that ours is rapidly becoming, (3) the restructuring of sub-units and divisions within the University for specialized training and enrichment programs characterized perhaps by greater autonomy, more lively competition, and increased cooperation.

Students are necessarily becoming more involved in the operation of the University. This involvement gives them a sense of power, not the type of power that controls university policies or operations but rather a feeling of influence because they are being heard and are actually participating in decision-making processes. This new type of student power will tend to bring to the campus a new kind of liberalism in a pattern of beliefs and activities less related to sit-ins, confrontations, and disruptions on the campus and more positively oriented toward the goals of research, scholarship, professional careers, and public service.

As the structure and functions of the University undergo these types of changes, the campus, per se will no longer be able to contain either the spirit or functions of the University. Various units or arms of the University will become increasingly involved in the life and structure of local communities and in the operations of established institutions and organizations.

Dr. Melvin Williams, Chairman of Sociology and Anthropology.

Dr. Peter Kunkel of Anthropology reviews class notes.

Student proofreads his report for sociology class.

The University

will go with students abroad, will move into agencies and communities for research and learning experiences, and will perhaps become increasingly involved with other established institutions of higher learning or specialized off-campus Institutes and programs such as the one at Manteo and others in process of being born.

The 1970's should bring an increase in exchange professorships and perhaps interchanges between our officials and other universities, corporations, associations, and related institutional bodies.

This decade may well become the testing ground for a new type of educational philosophy and a new system of universal education in which the university does not necessarily stand at the top of the educational hierarchy, but rather plays a basic and perpetual role in most, if not all, aspects of the teaching-learning process . . .

Currently

operating degree programs in the new School of Allied Health Professions are the B.S. in Medical Technology and the B.A. in Social Welfare. New B.S. degree programs in Medical Record Science, Physical Therapy, and Occupational Therapy are being developed and should be available to students during 1970 or 1971. A building to house the allied health school was authorized by the 1969 General Assembly; construction is expected to begin during the summer of 1970.

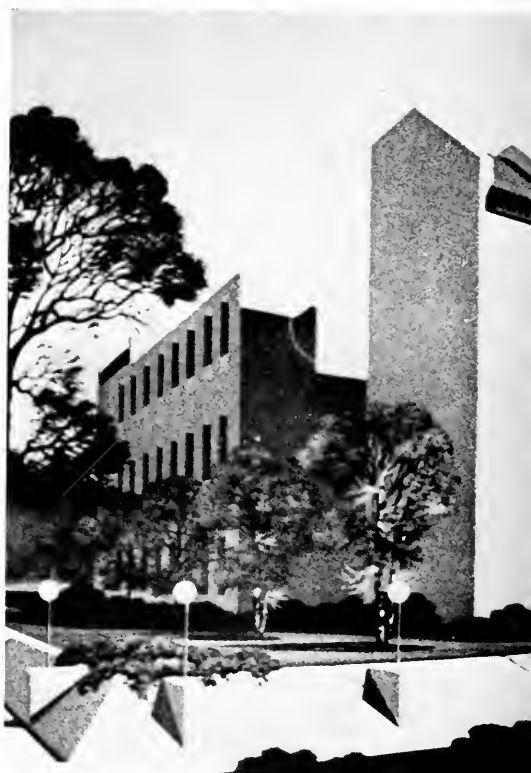

The decade of the '70's will see dramatic changes in health manpower education across the country as major expansion of efforts to meet the growing demand for all categories of these professions are brought to fruition. North Carolina is no exception; educational opportunities for the health careers will increase greatly.

New degree programs will be developed in Dental Hygiene, Health Education, Health Administration, and Health Counseling during the early '70's. It may be anticipated that new categories of health professionals not in existence now will develop as specific needs are identified that cannot be met by traditional categories.

It can be predicted that the two-year medical school will begin enrolling students before 1973. A complete four-year school of medicine may well be operational before the end of the decade.

The major distinction between all of the health related efforts at ECU and those located on other campuses is, and will continue to be, the intimate relationship present between the University and its community—the East. This partnership has been unique in the past; the decade of the '70's will see even stronger bonds built between the academic community and the varied health facilities that will make up the local campus—the Eastern region.

History

reveals that business has been a significant factor in the development of modern civilization. If history runs true to form, one group of leaders who will be at the forefront in meeting the challenges of the 70's will be leaders in the business environment. Those who aspire to business leadership at ECU will face demands of significant dimensions. They must have roots in many disciplines within the university.

If tomorrow's business leaders must direct the new technologies of the 70's, then ipso facto they will, to a large extent, be held accountable for the quality of lifestyle in our society. The current interest which business leaders are pledging to social progress will move from a fringe commitment to a total commitment.

Finally, East Carolina University students in 1970 have wider horizons than they did in 1960. No longer are they "land-locked" in their own hometowns either physically or mentally. They visualize in terms of regions, cultures, and nations rather than their immediate environments. East Carolina University can accept some of the credit for this change in attitude; it also must accept the challenge to extend the horizons still further, and this will be a task of the 70's. The School of Business looks forward to such a challenge.

majoring in Elementary Education today give evidence of better academic preparation in high school. College entrance scores are higher; and competency in the fields of science, mathematics, social studies and foreign languages is improving. More students with high ability are majoring in Elementary Education; and more young men are preparing for a career in early childhood or intermediate education, two areas that have attracted very few men in the past. Despite the ever-present pressures for quality point averages, there is a growing concern for the acquisition of concepts, skills, and values as opposed to high marks alone. This is apparent in the student's desire to select instructors who are considered tough but challenging, who provide learning processes rather than serving as a passive audience that accepts, assimilates, who regurgitates facts on demand.

Opportunities for problem solving are essential to students and we feel that University status gives the Department of Secondary Education the opportunity to broaden the offerings and to produce the challenge that students need and that secondary schools require. It is to this end that we shall strive to serve the region better and to cope with the diverse problems which exist today.

Home Economics

at East Carolina University is continually achieving its goals with increasing quality. In 1968 the department became a school and moved into a new building with spacious facilities. The school offers undergraduate and graduate majors in several subject matter areas and plans to propose additional programs as the need arises.

Today's student envisions education as a part of life as well as a way to earn a living. The school seeks to prepare professionals and to foster the development of qualities of inventiveness, flexibility, resourcefulness, curiosity and judgment. Experiences of meaningful action are planned to provide students with the opportunity to carry out responsible, productive activities in the larger community.

Our affluent society is characterized by its increasing emphasis on education and research, the increasing number of employed women, the need and emphasis placed on occupational training, and the increasing amount of leisure time for family members. New and varied occupations are being created. In the field of housing, for example, home economists work as teammates with city planners, architects, sociologists, and other professionals to provide a more satisfying environment. The planning and furnishing of a particular home in relation to its occupants and their work and leisure activities is of vital importance. Wise management of time, money, and energies to achieve family goals related to occupational, community, and personal activities is pertinent in an era when problem solvers are a necessity.

of Music students are now represented in decision-making committees effecting their own education. The School of Music Student-Forum, acting as a policy-making body of students, has taken steps to initiate an evaluation of the music curriculum. The School participates in such national programs as the Institutes for Music in Contemporary Education, the Contemporary Music Project of the Prospective Teacher Fellowship Program of the U.S. Office of Education, and the Manhattanville Music Curriculum Project.

With increased emphasis on education outcomes, ECU students will become more sophisticated about the goals of their education and will demand and get a new degree of relevancy in both their professional discipline and general education. Faculty insistence on higher levels of musical attainment will bring a response of increased dedication to the art of music from students. New demands of the profession will bring about a greater awareness of the needs for education in music capable of generating cultural renewal. Students in the new musical media, ethnomusicology, and others proffer a degree of compatibility between the curriculum and the musical life of society as they seek for themselves and others new values in music concerned with the quality of life in the future.

On the threshold of a new decade, what lies ahead for nursing education at East Carolina University in the next ten years? What relative projections are feasible at this time in the School of Nursing?

1. As more and more high school students seek professional education in institutions of higher learning, it is reasonable to assume that the number of students in the School of Nursing at ECU will continue to increase. Enrollment will also be influenced by the continued shifting of basic nursing education from hospital to the university.

2. Health facilities may be extended to include a medical center complex and more highly specialized community agencies to provide additional technical and specialized experiences for nursing students. This will greatly enhance the student's understandings of comprehensive patient care and his role in implementing this care.

3. Communication skills, leadership techniques, and administrative skills will grow in emphasis in order to better prepare the university graduate to assume his role in the professional field as a beginning practitioner and to provide the necessary background for advancement into positions of leadership.

4. Registered nurses will look to East Carolina for course and workshop offerings designed to update their knowledge in the newer approaches to patient care based on the results of current nursing research. To fill this need, an active Department of Continuing Education would be necessary.

—Charlotte Martin and Ruth J. Broadhurst
Nursing

Student

attitudes have undergone subtle, yet dramatic changes during the transition of East Carolina from college to university status. These changes are reflected daily by increased student concern for all matters vital to the continued growth of our institution.

As the student of the 70's becomes more concerned, he will also become more involved in university affairs. His institutional pride will intensify, and his expectations will heighten. Not only will he expect greater opportunities for cultural and social development, but also broadened opportunities to develop his potential for economic success.

The Department of Industrial and Technical Education will not disappoint the student of the 70's. The challenge to provide a true university program will be met as the following projections for expanded service are realized.

1. Enrollment will continue to increase as more emphasis is placed upon meeting the technical manpower needs of the region and the nation.

2. Occupational education programs will be expanded to include specialized preparation for technical teachers at all levels from the elementary school through the university.

3. A high degree of cooperation will be developed between the university and junior institutions in a joint venture to prepare technical institute teachers and professional industrial technologists.

4. The industrial technology curriculum will be expanded to include technical specialization.

5. A program in industrial rehabilitation therapy will become operational.

6. An industrial extension service will be developed in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education.

7. Graduate offerings will expand to include the master's in industrial technology and the doctorate in occupational education.

8. The department will be elevated to school status as curriculum offerings become more comprehensive.

9. The department will move into a new physical plant with equipment and facilities comparable to the best in the nation.

The 70's will see the school of Industrial and Technical Education gain regional and national recognition as a leader in its field.

Two Camp Lejeune students prepare for class.

Mr. Charles Bowman.

In the 1970's,

those students served by ECU through its three resident centers and its extension courses will increasingly be affected by developments on the home campus.

Hopefully, the new decade will see the further implementation of the concept of "carrying the campus to the people." The problem, in many cases, will be one of reaching the students before the impact of mass culture does. East Carolina has the particular responsibility of shaping as well as changing attitudes. For their part, the students at East Carolina and its off-campus centers are highly inquisitive and eager for commitment.

The faith that East Carolina has in its own future is contagious. University status has simply made possible a broader view of its role as an institution of higher learning. The 1970's will present it with many great challenges. The way in which it responds to them will be the result, in large measure, of the dedication and vision of its students. Every reason for optimism abounds.
